Will history repeat when Nebraska and Kansas collide in the opening Big Eight Conference football game Saturday afternoon in Memorial Stadium?

Professional oddsmakers have said "no" by making the Cornhuskers 14-point favorites, but there are striking similarities in the two teams from a year ago when Nebraska surprised the Jayhawks 56-0 after leading just 14-0 at the half.

The Jayhawks took a 4-1 record, a threegame winning streak, and the nation's No. 13 ranking into the contest. Nebraska was 3-2 and rated No. 12. It figured to be a fierce battle.

Beginning Of End

What happened, though, was the beginning of the end for Kansas and coach Don Fambrough. The Jayhawks lost all their remaining games and Fambrough was replaced by Bud Moore, an assistant at Moore brought 'Bama's wishbone offensive attack with him, found a quarterback, Nolan Cromwell, who had been playing free safety for two years, and the Jayhawks have sprinted off to a 3-1 record. This week they were rated No. 20 in the nation by United Press International.

Nebraska, with a virtually all-new offensive line and quarterbacking, has rolled up four victories in a row and is ranked the fourth best college team in the country.

If history repeats, there'll be a lot of surprised people among the 76,000-plus fans expected for the 1:30 p.m. kickoff in 70degree weather. It will be Nebraska's 79th sellout crowd in a row at home.

Coaches' Capsules

Nebraska's Tom Osborne: "Kansas plays pretty solid defense. They're basically a 5-2 front which we will see the rest of the season, so our job is just going to be blocking their people and also not making mistakes offensively. You'll find that at least a third of the time when you stall offensively, you've hurt yourself with a penalty, fumble or some mistake."

Kansas' Bud Moore: "I decided for the offense to go, Nolan Cromwell would have to be the quarterback. If he didn't do it, we'd have to go to another formation. But I knew he had everything in the world he had to have to be a wishbone quarterback. He's not going to gain 294 yards every week, but he's capable of it."

"Our biggest concern is that this is our first time to face a wishbone team," Coach Tom Osborne of the Huskers said. "We probably haven't met a really good offensive team up to this point. Our defense will get a severe test."

Kansas, too, is expecting its defense to receive its toughest challenge of the season

"I think we will get our sternest test yet," Moore said. "Nebraska has a balanced offense, which I don't think you can honestly say about any of our nonconference opponents. They can hurt you with both the pass and the run and that's gomg to put a lot of pressure on our defense, particularly the linebackers."

Moore said he feels Kansas has to go into the game prepared to throw the ball more than it has so far. "As it turned out, we didn't have to pass that much against Wisconsin," he said, "But I'll be very surprised if that holds true against Nebraska."

The Huskers will open with Vince Ferragamo at quarterback for the first time. He came in to lead four scoring drives in last Saturday's comeback 31-16 victory over Miami of Florida.

The Huskers will be without split end Chuck Malito, who is sitting this one out because of a strained knee. There are no other lineup changes.

Buildings Proposed In DPI's 5-Year Plan

By BOB GUENTHER Star Staff Writer

73RD YEAR

The State Department of Public Institutions has proposed a new veterans' home in the Lincoln-Omaha area, a new $1 million center for the visually impaired and a halfway house in Lincoln for mentally ill adolescents.

The suggestions are contained in a fiveyear plan for state institutions prepared at the request of the Legislature.

The plan outlines goals for the three mental institutions, veterans hospitals, community mental health centers and services for the visually impaired. The mental retardation section has not been completed.

Plan Criticized

Already, however, the plan has come under some sharp criticism from people who feel the plan gives in to pressure groups and is of dubious worth to state legislators.

The greatest expansion has been proposed for the veterans, since the numbers of veterans needing nursing and domiciliary care is expected to rise.

To meet the increase, the five-year plan calls for expansion at Scottsbluff to accommodate an additional 318 veterans.

In addition, the plan says a fourth veterans' home should be built in the Lincoln-Omaha area due to the larger population of veterans there. Veterans homes are presently located in Norfolk, Grand Island and Scottsbluff.

"Douglas County alone has 60,000 veterans," the plan states. "Numerous request have been made by veterans organizations to establish a home in this

By 1989, the state will need 2,400 beds to care for veterans, the plan says.

In services for the visually impaired, the plan notes that Lancaster county plans to sell the old Orthopedic Hospital on South St., which houses training facilities for the visually impaired. The plan says a new 22,000-square-foot center for the visually impaired should be constructed within five years. Such a center would cost $1 million, the plan said, and half of that would be paid by the federal government.

The plan also urges changes to give visually impaired participating in the small business program greater independence. Presently, the visually impaired have little control over where their ventures are located. Often the location, more than personal effort, determines the income earned by a visually impaired person, the plan says.

In addition, the plan calls for the elimination of the 6% set-aside taken out of a person's earnings and deposited in a state revolving fund.

The plan calls for a new commitment law in the mental health field. The existing law is similar to ones which have been declared unconstitutional in other states. However, the plan does not state what the elements of a new commitment law should be.

Recruiting Psychiatrists

Another goal centers around the recruiting of psychiatrists to staff state hospitals and community mental health

For the Lincoln Regional Center, a new half-way house for adolescents is envisioned, along with additions to the security and adolescent units.

The Hastings Regional Center's plans call for addition of a children's in-patient program as well as a juvenile diagnostic and evaluation center.

Ken Diamond, of the State Health Planning Office, criticized the Department of Public Institutions for not consulting his office about its projections.

Diamond questioned the need for a veterans' home in eastern Nebraska in view of a surplus of nursing and hospital beds already. Referring to the veterans' organizations, Diamond said locations should not be dictated by pressure

Don Wermers, representing the Emmanuel Mental Health Center in Omaha, said legislators may find the plan "meaningless" in attempting to make budgetary decisions.

For Poland

WASHINGTON (AP) — New grain sales to Poland were approved by President Ford on Friday following a new Agriculture Department estimate showing American farmers are harvesting record crops of corn and wheat this Sales to Poland and the Soviet Union were halted this summer after purchases of U.S. grain soared, causing fears that American consumers might see another round of skyrocketing food prices.

Ford said in Detroit that negotiations are continuing with both nations on a long-term agreement. But the embargo on further grain sales to Russia remains in effect although it is under study.

Asked why the embargo on sales to the Soviets remains in effect. President Ford said there is a "very simple explanation." The United States wants a longterm agreement with Russia while the Russians want grain now, he said. He called it "a matter of good old Yankee trader action to block immediate sales until securing a long-term contract.

"I think we're going to get some results," possibly by Oct. 15, he added.

Church Body Opposes Using Plutonium In Fuel

NEW YORK (AP) - The National Council of Churches gave initial approval Friday to a statement saying the use of plutonium as a nuclear fuel is "morally indefensible and technically objectionable."

The statement was based on a study endorsed by 66 prominent scientists and scholars, including 16 Nobel laurestes.

The Atomic Industrial Forum said on behalf of the nuclear industry that members of the scientific committee conducting the study "generally have no experience or expertise in nuclear power safety or other pertinent subjects."

The Energy Research and Development Administration issued a statement saying it is "confident that plutonium will be handled safely in the quantities that will come of our present-day light water reactors and the breeder reactors of the future. Further, we will have in effect safeguard measures to insure that none of this special nuclear material is stolen or diverted to use by unauthorized groups."

"The agency said that without the reactor the supply of uranium will run out in a relatively short time.

; "Our supplies of petroleum and natural gas, upon which we are not 75% dependent. will be depleted early in the next century. Alterhative sources of energy must become available immediately and at increasingly high levels," ERDA said.

The 276-member governing board of the church organization, representing 31 Protestant and Orthodox churches with 40 million members, adopted the study without significant debate and statement would receive final approval at the board's next meeting, in Atlanta, Ga., in March.

The decision by the council represented a reversal of a policy statement adopted in 1960 by the organization which endorsed the use of nuclear energy for peaceful purposes. The study on plutonium and nuclear power was prepared at the request of the council by a committee of scientists headed by Dr. Rene Dubos of Rockefeller University and Margaret Mead, the anthropologist.

The council's governing body approved a resolution saying "it is incumbent upon the churches and individual members to seek a moratorium on decisions to pursue plutonium reactors as a major energy source, pending further study of the theological, economic, sociopolitical and technical issues involved."

Accusing the signees of lacking expertise in nuclear power, the forum said: "What many of them do have in common, however, is a longstanding opposition to nuclear power."

Othe New Hork Cimes . .

Washington - The Senate Committee on Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs plans to meet in 10 days to draft a bill providing limited loan guarantees for New York City, and plans final action Oct. 23.

"The situation is changing," chairmen William Proxmire, D-Wis., said after the committee heard testimony Friday from New York state officials, bankers and brokers.

Proximire said he sensed growing support in the Senate for such legislation. "It's gaining momentum;" he said.

"It's evident that the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board (Arthur Burns) has somewhat modified his position." Proxmire said. "I think the same kind of movement is possible on the part of the administration."

At Friday's hearing, the committee heard:

In view of what he sees as "growing support" for his candidacy, Blank announced that he will travel throughout the district in the next few weeks "to get a more reliable outlook on where I stand."

If voters tell him they want a choice in the GOP primary, Blank said, he will be willing to provide it.

Blank's statement pointed the way to what would be a major Republican contest in 1976, one which would pose the real possibility of ousting an incumbent member of Congress in his or her own party's primary.

Although such an event is unusual, there is a recent Nebraska precedent. John McCollister bumped incumbent Glenn Cunningham in the 2nd District Republican primary of 1970.

Mrs. Smith barely edged Blank by 141 votes in an eight-candidate free-for-all in 1974, then won a slim 737-vote general election victory over Democratic nominee Wayne Ziebarth.

Blank said Friday that several potential Republican candidates have told him they would stay out of the 1976 primary if he enters it.

And "a number of people who supported other candidates in the last primary have indicated their desire to support my candidacy in the upcoming primary," he said.

'A run-off election was what many people seemed to want when the vote was close in 1974. In a sense, that may be their intent now."

Blank said he too is "interested in seeing what would happen in a race with fewer can-

A major issue would be the potential for congressional seniority. The first-term congresswoman is 64; Blank is 39.

"Building a solid seniority base so that the district will not only have representation, but also a congressman who is not hampered by lack of seniority, is in the best interest of the citizens of this district," Blank said.

Blank said he wants to "determine if enough people would support the type of potential longterm representation I believe I can offer."

The former McCook mayor said he probably will not have a final decision until after November. Most of the district travel will come next month, he said.

Blank said his travels will include "informal meetings" with citizens to "learn from the people their opinion about the race and the issues.

"I feel, as I did before, that I can represent this district's philosophy with enthusiasm and

The consultants are charged with developing a priority for development of parking facilities, plus recommending rates and funding.

Any recommendations are to be compatible with the goals and policies adopted by local officials and the Lincoln Center Plan for downtown redevelopment.

One such policy deals with the City Council's possible adoption of a policy calling for the restricted use of the automobile.

Holsinger said the consultants also are to make sure that their recommendations are compatible with a proposed mass transit program.

The Kansas City firm also will evaluate the parking needs of handicapped people.

A one-year parking program is scheduled to be outlined in May. The entire study will take a year, Holsinger said.

The Kansas City consultants were selected from a field of six candidates.

Best Overall Display

By J. L. SCHMIDT Star Staff Writer

A giant dazed Jayhawk sprawled out on the sidewalk at 1433 R St. gave $50 and the title of Best Overall Display in 1975 University Nebraska-Lincoln Homecoming competition to the men of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

Likewise, a Jayhawk being devoured by "Jaws," that now infamous great white shark, in the front yard of the Sigma Phi Epsilon house at 635 N. 16th St., brought laurels and $25 to its creators. Yet another such dazzled bird was worthy of $25 and laurels for the women of Kappa Kappa Gamma at 616 N. 16th.

The three displays, part of the 50 which popped up on campus this year, were the result of week-night work sessions, themselves quite an attraction.

While the "Sig Phi's" were busy making waves (with blue paint on cardboard), one member of the work crew was heard comforting a coed saying, "It's not a real shark; don't worry."

Several Greek units were busy cooking Jayhawk stew, the men of Kappa Sigma were pitching hay bales onto the roof and front lawn of their house in preparation for their annual barn party and the Gamma Phi Beta's and Delta Sigma Phi's were inviting onlookers to "Have It Our Way," with a Jayhawk burger.

Better Off Than Before

Already so much has been written and said against the interim peace agreement between Israel and Egypt that it isn't hard to believe that the accord, the newest jewel in the Kissinger crown, is worse than the no-war, no-peace, but plenty-of-chancesfor-war atmosphere that it replaces.

It seems like nobody is happy with the accord, which features 200 civilian Americans as observers to guard against military movements in the neutral zone. except for President Sadat of Egypt and the American secretary of state. Syria and the rest of the Arabs and the Palestinian guerrillas don't like it. The Soviet Union, which took no part in the negotiations and thus suffered a loss of prestige when they were successful, doesn't like it. Israel really doesn't like it very much. And neither does the U.S. Congress, which nevertheless went along with it.

The agreement has been criticized from nearly every angle - as a sell-out to the Israelis, as a sell-out to the Arabs, as a creature of the Americans, as a trap for the Americans — and it is really only hours old.

The U.S. Senate approved of American participation in monitoring the neutral zone only Thursday night and Israel put a formal signature on the bottom line only yesterday.

With all the complaining, it is hardly an auspicious beginning.

The situation is somewhat similar to a bunch of hardnosed traders, each bitterly complaining that he got the worse end of the deal, but each secretly satisfied that he got at least a little bit of what he wanted.

At least a deal was struck. And because the stakes are so high - within this particular arena are scattered the seeds of an economic Pearl Harbor and World War III and the world is trying to prevent them from germinating — that which has been done should receive more credit than it has from people of good will.

Before Kissinger's last round of shuttle diplomacy, the accepted view of what was happening in the Middle East was that war could break out again at any time. Now, perhaps, there is a better chance for peace, and a foundation upon which more lasting agreements can be built. The interim agreement might not be very acceptable to any or all concerned, but the area and the world are in much better shape than

Round One To Hansen

One might think that coming into a new position as chief of police of Lincoln. Neb., would be the proverbial piece of cake." And ordinarily it would be. Lincoln has a relatively low crime rate, no organized crime and a generally responsible citizenry.

All things considered, it also has a good police department. But new Police Chief George Hansen arrived on the scene just as the community was in the midst of one of the more serious conflicts it had experienced in some time.

Emotions have been running high since a county deputy sheriff shot a black man in the course of a drug raid by police. The incident and its handling have been subject to severe criticism within various elements of the community.

Chief Hansen, in our opinion, has made commendable progress in the situation. In meeting with minority group representatives and others, Hansen seemed to succeed in conveying a sincere desire for equal law enforcement for all.

He has taken several specific actions to stress the desire of his department to have good relationships within the black community of the city. He seems to be trying to demonstrate the fact that good law enforcement is not the product of tough cops, loaded guns and hollow point bullets.

Those, rather, are last resorts brought into play when all else has failed. And what else is there? First and foremost. there should be confidence throughout the community that the police are on the job for the protection of the citizenry and not for the harassment of any element of it.

Secondly, there should be in that police department a dedication to the law coupled with a keen sense of value of human life. No life is so wasted so long as there is any other option available.

With good law enforcement, the presence of police officers gives a sense of security. freedom and confidence, not a sense of fear, anxiety and animosity. All of this is the direction in which Chief Hansen has seemed to move in his first few days on the job.

His has been an encouraging beginning, a ray of hope that we can continue to have good, effective law enforcement, but without so many of the human relations problems that have plagued us in the past.

Two Views: America In The World

ideals elsewhere.

By ANTHONY LEWIS

BOSTON — Last summer Fidel Castro was asked by James Reston of The New York Times about efforts to export his revolution to the rest of Latin America. He answered that he was doing no exporting - it was the United States that was exporting counter-revolution.

The answer would make most Americans instinctively bristle with innocence, but there happens to be a lot to it. Whatever Castro's desire, the Cuban revolution has not been duplicated elsewhere in this hemisphere. But the United States helped to install a right-Wing tyranny in Chile and intervened with armed force on the rightist side in the Dominican Republic.

Americans remain extraordinarily innocent about our country's impact on the world. We think of ourselves as devoted to human rights and freedom, and we naturally assume that American actions abroad work to the same ends. We have maintained that virtuous self-image, many of us, despite a staggering accumulation of facts to the contrary."

We used to shudder, for example, at stories of Soviet agents abroad murdering opponents of communism. But we have discovered lately that our Central Intelligence Agency planned, and perhaps attempted, assassinations of foreign political leaders.

We thought of terrorism as a dreadful tactic in the Communist drive for power. But official figures put the deaths at over 20,000 in the Phoenix program, our campaign of political terrorism in Vietnam.

We worried about the Soviets cheating on arms control agreements, given the secrecy and deception built into their system. But now we know that American officials secretly kept stores of biological weapons in violation of international agreement and presidential order.

We feared communist military aggression, and it was a real danger. But in fact, over the last 30 years, there has been nothing remotely to match the horror of the aggressive war carried out by the United States in Cambodia, Vietnam and

Nor is there much evidence that the U.S. government has drawn appropriate lessons from that record. Has any official expressed regret at the destruction of Cambodia by American bombers? Indeed, the agents of our worst policies have been promoted. William Colby of the Phoenix program now heads the CIA. WASHINGTON - Back in 1971, when Israel's best friend in Africa was Uganda's Idi Amin, an Israeli-built passenger jet was put at the disposal of the new leader, piloted by two Israelis.

General Amin, who had served as the Ugandan Army's heavyweight boxing champion and then became dictator after a coup, was delighted with his new toy. One day, he remembered he was a Moslem, and told his pilots; "Fly me to Mecca.

The embarrassed pilots explained that Mecca was an Arab city, and there was this trouble between Arabs and Israelis and they would prefer not to spend the rest of their lives in jail. Thus did Idi Amin learn of the Arab-Israeli conflict.

The following year, when he asked for Phantom jets to bomb Tanzania, Israel said no. Then some Israelis had the temerity to begin asking for payment on some of the $30 million in construction work going on in Uganda, and Amin discovered the horrors of Zionism. He threw the Jews out of his country, turning for financial succor to Libya's militant Colonel Qaddafi.

The dictator of Uganda then told the United Nations that "Germany was the right place where, when Hitler was the prime minister, he burned over six million Jews." He proceeded to emulate the Nazis in his own way: At least 99,000 Ugandan citizens have been slaughtered for not supporting Amin vigorously enough.

When Uganda's dictator came to the United Nations last week to call for the "extinction" of Israel and to condemn the "Zionist-dominated" United States, his fellow Africans whispered behind their hands that they really thought Amin a madman, then leaped to their feet and gave him a thunderous ovation.

Then the American ambassador to the United Nations, Patrick Moynihan, who undiplomatically insists on treating other representatives from less-developed nations as rational intelligent human beings, approvingly quoted a New York Times editorial characterization of Amin as a "racist murderer."

Fierce tut-tutting rocked the United Nations, where the rules of the game have been for the United States to smile indulgently as an assortment of imperialists, aggressors, racists and murderers condemns the United States as the world's worst imperialist, aggressive, racist and murderous state.

The NAACP's Clarence Mitchell, a member of the U.S. delegation, strongly responded with a reminder of the disastrous result of the "courteous" appeasement of Hitler. At Wednesdav's cabinet meeting, President Ford was quoted as saying: "Pat Moynihan and Clarence Mitchell said what needed to be said." When the President added, "You seem to be surviving Pat," Moynihan replied: "If you say so, sir - then I am." It's been a long time since the United States stood up in the United Nations and asserted itself, denouncing the double standards of its detractors. "For too long," Moynihan says, "we have been given private assurances that public obscenities were not meant. That currency is no longer acceptable." **** * * ***

However, we can soon expect the handwringing or our own diplomatic munchkins. Here it comes: We know other Africans privately despise Amin, why do we drive them together? The dictator serves as head of the Organization of African Unity by rotation only, why should we take his speech to heart? Since we were doing so well with our serious approach to Third-World problems, why should we object to a little standard extremist rhetoric - especially when the others slip us a wink?

The answer is that when a dictator with the blood of tens of thousands of his countrymen on his hands talks "extinction," he must be taken seriously. And when U.N. diplomats rise to their feet and clap their hands at a call to genocide by a man with such impressive credentials, they must understand that their public display of support cannot be ameliorated by murmuring of "We don't really mean it" in

A new world order of rhetoric has arrived, which affirms that diplomats are to be held responsible for what they say in public.

Moynihan has taken pains to praise the African nations that recently broke the back of the movement to expel Israel from the United Nations. He is not anxious to continue the debate about

But for us to tolerate their game of back-Amin would be to endorse hypocrisy. When we hold Africans to account for applauding the bloody repression they are quick to denounce elsewhere, we are not driving them together, for they have never shown an inclination to come apart. On the contrary, they have had it both ways: approving Amin publicly, deploring him

That's all over now. If a nation wishes to act publicly as an enemy of democracy, or a supporter of racist murder, that will cost it something. Diplomacy is becoming a two-way street. The price of a delicious diatribe against the United States is the aid and friendship of the United States.

We shall soon be able to measure how our new, refreshing realism at the United Nations will pay off in terms of support for U.S. positions. In the pink sheets that circulate our diplomatic cable traffic, one can read - for the first time - a toughminded American position that says "abstention is not enough." If nations want us to believe they are with us, they will have to put their votes where their private assurances were.

Against HMO

Lincoln The writers of "Column A" which appeared in the Lincoln Star recently raised the issue of an inexplicable "flip-flop" the SeNHPC Board made in its decision to abandon further implementation of a proposed HMO (Health Maintenance Organization) for Lincoln. The writers stated, "HMO advocates say such a system can help rein in galloping health care costs by encouraging persons to seek preventive medical care as well as making health care more responsive to consumers."

A recent report from Ontario, Canada, would support the wisdom of the Schille in rejecting a federal grant which would s also for paying salaries for further HMO planning. The report states, "two prepayment clinics have emerged secondbest in a cost-effectiveness comparison ordered by the Ontario Health and Welfare Agency. A team from the University of Tortonto School of Hygiene reported that, contrary to their claims, these capitation-financed community health groups have been unable to provide services at less expense than fee-for service facilities. Comparing experiences with six fee groups, the researchers found heavy reliance on diagnostic services - 20% to 50% higher x-ray exposure for prepayment group members than for fee-paying patients, as one example. Also studied were such specific cost items as lab services, hospital admissions for a range of medical cases, and per-person cost of hospital and medical services."

Copies of the full report are available on request to the CAMC at 1867 Alta Vista Drive, P.O. Box 8244, Ottawa, Ontario. Those members of the SeNHPC Board in favor of an HMO system for Lincoln should study this report. Further, Connecticut General Life Insurance Company recently abandoned an HMO in Brooklyn after incurring losses approaching 1.5 million dollars. Aetna Life and Casualty Company cancelled plans to start a 2.5 million dollar HMO in Tampa, Florida. Aetna does not plan to start another HMO in the foreseeable future.

In Los Angeles, HMO International is in court because of apparent insolvency and mismanagement.

Our local SeNHPC Board was of the opinion that an HMO simply was not indicated for Lincoln and that it would not provide the rewards promised by the advocates of the HMO. It will now be interesting to learn whether the State Comprehensive Health Planning Board and the federal government from their more lofty positions may consider an HMO appropriate for Lincoln when our local planning board believes it is not.

The Politics Of Pot

WASHINGTON - How thoughtful of Jack Ford to take the political heat off his mother. And put it on his father.

The President's son has just become the first White House sibling to admit to a crime while his dad was an incumbent. He has smoked marijuana, the possession and purchasing of which carry criminal penalties everywhere but five states.

That surely ought to stir up the moralists as much as the First Lady's remarks acknowledging that in view of the changing sexual standards her daughter might some day have an affair.

Politically, the President cannot afford to be caught up in a controversy about drugs. Gov. Ronald Reagan's pending candidacy has put him under great pressure not to offend the staunch conservatives in his party, most of whom view drugs as symptomatic of the liberal permissiveness they abhor. **☆ ☆ ☆

Jack Ford's high-level scorn for the law, however, might push along a liberalizing trend that has been accelerating since pot became an issue in the 1972 presidential campaign. Richard Nixon, as part of his selfimposed puritan image, firmly opposed any change in the law while George McGovern defensively spent most of the campaign denying he had ever said marijuana ought to be legalized. (He had, back in the New Hampshire primary when he was still largely ignored and only the kids liked him.)

The pot laws are slowly relaxing, mostly out of a pragmatic recognition by authorities and politicians that some 12 million young people who are not really criminals smoke it regularly despite the

The President's own Domestic Council drug review task force recommended recently, in a report the President has yet to make public, that a low priority be given to enforcement of marijuana laws. It did not contain any legislative proposals but it noted that possessing pot could be de-emphasized by making it a civil rather than criminal violation subject only to small fine.

Four states — California. Colorado, Oregon and Maine have reduced pot-smoking to an offense equal to a parking ticket. Alaska's State Supreme Court has gone further and ruled that an individual's constitutional right to privacy embraces potsmoking in his own home although he may still be fined for purchasing it.

Approximately 22 states are now debating various forms of legislation to decriminalize pot. Court cases challenging the law's constitutionality are in process in many states, including one being argued by former Attorney General Ramsey Clark in the

District of Columbia District

Medical opinion is divided on the effects of regular potsmoking, and so are public attitudes toward it. Various studies have shown that a majority of marijuana possession cases are dropped before they come to court as unworthy of prosecution. But a recent survey of residents of the capital metropolitan area showed enly about one-third (36 per cont) favor reduction of criminal penalties for smoking pet, almost the identical result of a similar survey two years ago.

Three years ago, a national commission on marijuana and drug abuse called for the abolition of criminal penalties for the personal possession and private use of pot. It added, however, that selling the drug should still be a crime, to discourage its use. President Nixon rejected the proposal out of hand.

Better Off Than Before

Already so much has been written and said against the interim peace agreement between Israel and Egypt that it isn't hard to believe that the accord, the newest jewel in the Kissinger crown, is worse than the no-war, no-peace, but plenty-of-chancesfor-war atmosphere that it replaces.

It seems like nobody is happy with the accord, which features 200 civilian Americans as observers to guard against military movements in the neutral zone, except for President Sadat of Egypt and the American secretary of state. Syria and the rest of the Arabs and the Palestinian guerrillas don't like it. The Soviet Union, which took no part in the negotiations and thus suffered a loss of prestige when they were successful, doesn't like it. Israel really doesn't like it very much. And neither does the U.S. Congress, which nevertheless went along with it.

The agreement has been criticized from nearly every angle — as a sell-out to the Israelis, as a sell-out to the Arabs, as a creature of the Americans, as a trap for the Americans — and it is really only hours old.

The U.S. Senate approved of American participation in monitoring the neutral zone only Thursday night and Israel put a formal signature on the bottom line only yesterday.

With all the complaining, it is hardly an auspicious beginning.

The situation is somewhat similar to a bunch of hardnosed traders, each bitterly complaining that he got the worse end of the deal, but each secretly satisfied that he got at least a little bit of what he wanted.

At least a deal was struck. And because the stakes are so high - within this particular arena are scattered the seeds of an economic Pearl Harbor and World War III and the world is trying to prevent them from germinating - that which has been done should receive more credit than it has from people of good will.

Before Kissinger's last round of shuttle diplomacy, the accepted view of what was happening in the Middle East was that war could break out again at any time. Now. perhaps, there is a better chance for peace. and a foundation upon which more lasting agreements can be built. The interim agreement might not be very acceptable to any or all concerned, but the area and the world are in much better shape than

One might think that coming into a new position as chief of police of Lincoln, Neb., would be the proverbial piece of cake." And ordinarily it would be. Lincoln has a relatively low crime rate, no organized crime and a generally responsible citizenry.

All things considered, it also has a good police department. But new Police Chief George Hansen arrived on the scene just as the community was in the midst of one of the more serious conflicts it had experienced in some time.

Emotions have been running high since a county deputy sheriff shot a black man in the course of a drug raid by police. The incident and its handling have been subject to severe criticism within various elements of the community.

Chief Hansen, in our opinion, has made commendable progress in the situation. In meeting with minority group representatives and others, Hansen seemed to succeed in conveying a sincere desire for equal law enforcement for all.

He has taken several specific actions to stress the desire of his department to have good relationships within the black community of the city. He seems to be trying to demonstrate the fact that good law enforcement is not the product of tough cops, loaded guns and hollow point bullets.

Those, rather, are last resorts brought into play when all else has failed. And what else is there? First and foremost, there should be confidence throughout the community that the police are on the job for the protection of the citizenry and not for the harassment of any element of it.

Secondly, there should be in that police department a dedication to the law coupled with a keen sense of value of human life. No life is so wasted so long as there is any other option available.

With good law enforcement, the presence of police officers gives a sense of security, freedom and confidence, not a sense of fear, anxiety and animosity. All of this is the direction in which Chief Hansen has seemed to move in his first few days on the job.

His has been an encouraging beginning, a ray of hope that we can continue to have good, effective law enforcement, but without so many of the human relations problems that have plagued us in the past.

Two Views: America In The World

By ANTHONY LEWIS

BOSTON - Last summer Fidel Castro was asked by James Reston of The New York Times about efforts to export his revolution to the rest of Latin America. He answered that he was doing no exporting - it was the United States that was exporting counter-revolution.

The answer would make most Americans instinctively bristle with innocence, but there happens to be a lot to it. Whatever Castro's desire, the Cuban revolution has not been duplicated elsewhere in this hemisphere. But the United States helped to install a rightwing tyranny in Chile and intervened with armed force on the rightist side in the Dominican Republic.

Americans remain extraordinarily innocent about our country's impact on the world. We think of ourselves as devoted to human rights and freedom, and we naturally assume that American actions abroad work to the same ends. We have maintained that virtuous self-image, many of us, despite a staggering accumulation of facts to the contrary.

We used to shudder, for example, at stories of Soviet agents abroad murdering opponents of communism. But we have discovered lately that our Central Intelligence Agency planned, and perhaps attempted, assassinations of foreign political leaders.

We thought of terrorism as a dreadful tactic in the Communist drive for power. But official figures put the deaths at over 20,000 in the Phoenix program, our campaign of political terrorism in Vietnam.

We worried about the Soviets cheating on arms control agreements, given the secrecy and deception built into their system. But now we know that American officials secretly kept stores of biological weapons in violation of international agreement and presidential order.

We feared communist military aggression, and it was a real danger. But in fact, over the last 30 years, there has been nothing remotely to match the horror of the aggressive war carried out by the United States in Cambodia, Vietnam and

Nor is there much evidence that the U.S. government has drawn appropriate lessons from that record. Has any official expressed regret at the destruction of Cambodia by American bombers? Against HMO

The writers of "Column A" which appeared in the Lincoln Star recently raised the issue of an inexplicable "flip-flop" the SeNHPC Board made in its decision to abandon further implementation of a proposed HMO (Health Maintenance Organization) for Lincoln. The writers stated, "HMO advocates say such a system can help rein in galloping health care costs by encouraging persons to seek preventive medical care as well as making health care more responsive to consumers."

A recent report from Ontario, Canada, would support the wisdom of the ScNIPC in rejecting a federal grant which would be used for paying salaries for further HMO planning. The report states, "two prepayment clinics have emerged secondbest in a cost-effectiveness comparison ordered by the Ontario Health and Welfare Agency. A team from the University of Tortonto School of Hygiene reported that, contrary to their claims, these capitation-financed community health groups have been unable to provide services at less expense than fee-for service facilities. Comparing experiences with six fee groups, the researchers found heavy reliance on diagnostic services -20%to 50% higher x-ray exposure for prepayment group members than for fee-paying patients, as one example. Also studied were such specific cost items as lab services, hospital admissions for a range of medical cases, and per-person cost of hospital and medical services.'

Copies of the full report are available on request to the CAMC at 1867 Alta Vista Drive, P.O. Box 8244, Ottawa, Ontario. Those members of the SeNHPC Board in favor of an HMO system for Lincoln should study this report. Further, Connecticut General Life Insurance Company recently abandoned an HMO in Brooklyn after incurring losses approaching 1.5 million dollars. Aetna Life and Casualty Company cancelled plans to start a 2.5 million dollar HMO in Tampa, Florida. Aetna does not plan to start another HMO in the foreseeable future.

In Los Angeles, HMO International is in court because of apparent insolvency and mismanagement.

Our local SeNHPC Board was of the opinion that an HMO simply was not indicated for Lincoln and that it would not provide the rewards promised by the advocates of the HMO. It will now be interesting to learn whether the State Comprehensive Health Planning Board and the federal government from their more lofty positions may consider an HMO appropriate for Lincoln when our local planning board believes it is not. A Hobby To Keep Busy

Kent, Wash. I am a handicapped veteran, living on a small pension. My vision and hearing are slowly leaving me. The doctors say they can do nothing, so I have made hobbies to keep busy and fight off periods of mental depression and despondency, which seem to plague me most of the time.

While I am collecting antique valentines and old post cards, I am also collecting rare old calendars and advertising cards in hopes of writing a book about the items I collect, and earning enough from it to get off this small VA pension and have medical care which the VA is unable to afford me. So my hobbies have a dual purpose.

Living on limited funds, I depend on friends and others for the items I collect. I was wondering if any Star readers had any antique valentines, old post cards or rare old calendars they do not want, because I would be happy to have any they may care to send me. My address is 1211 Chicago St., Kent, Washington,

MARIANNE MEANS

WASHINGTON - How thoughtful of Jack Ford to take the political heat off his mother. And put it on his father.

The President's son has just become the first White House sibling to admit to a crime while his dad was an incumbent. He has smoked marijuana, the possession and purchasing of which carry criminal penalties everywhere but five states.

That surely ought to stir up the moralists as much as the First Lady's remarks acknowledging that in view of the changing sexual standards her daughter might some day have an affair.

Politically, the President cannot afford to be caught up in a controversy about drugs. Gov. Ronald Reagan's pending candidacy has put him under great pressure not to offend the staunch conservatives in his party, most of whom view drugs as symptomatic of the liberal permissiveness they abhor.

公 公 公

Jack Ford's high-level scorn for the law, however, might push along a liberalizing trend that has been accelerating since pot became an issue in the 1972 presidential campaign. Richard Nixon, as part of his selfimposed puritan image, firmly opposed any change in the law while George McGovern defensively spent most of the campaign denying he had ever said marijuana ought to be legalized. (He had, back in the New Hampshire primary when he was still largely ignored and only the kids liked him.)

The pot laws are slowly relaxing, mostly out of a pragmatic recognition by authorities and politicians that some 12 million young people who are not really criminals smoke it regularly despite the sanctions.

The President's own Domestic Council drug review task force recommended recently, in a report the President has yet to make public, that a low priority be given to enforcement of marijuana laws. It did not contain any legislative proposals but it noted that possessing pot could be de-emphasized by making it a civil rather than criminal violation subject only to a small fine.

Four states - California, Colorado, Oregon and Maine have reduced pot-smoking to an offense equal to a parking ticket. Alaska's State Supreme Court has gone further and ruled that an individual's constitutional right to privacy embraces potsmoking in his own home although he may still be fined for purchasing it.

Bills to decriminalize (but not. legalize) marijuana are pending in both Senate and House, but opposition is so stiff in both bodies that no favorable action is likely soon.

Approximately 22 states are now debating various forms of legislation to decriminalize pot. Court cases challenging the law's constitutionality are in process in many states, including one being argued by former Attorney General Ramsey Clark in the

Medical opinion is divided on the effects of regular potsmoking, and so are public attitudes toward it. Various studies have shown that a majority of marijuana possession cases are dropped before they come to court as unworthy of prosecution. But a recent survey of residents of the capital metropolitan area showed only about one-third (36 per cent) favor reduction of criminal penalties for smoking pot, almost the identical result of a similar survey two years ago.

Three years ago, a national commission on marijuana and drug abuse called for the abolition of criminal penalties for the personal possession and private use of pot. It added, however, that selling the drug should still be a crime, to discourage its use. President Nixon rejected the proposal out of hand.

Two New Procedures Help Keep Down Welfare Fraud

Potential welfare fraud by recipients and public officials is being fought by two new rules established by the State Welfare Department.

An examination of procedures by the state auditor's office brought about a change in the practice of sending some welfare checks to the county offices instead of directly to the recipients, according to Robert Wright, director of the agency's management data service divi-

The auditor's office had several objections to the procedure, including cases of fraud that had been discovered in Michigan, where case workers and county officials had sent bogus names and asked for payment through local offices so they could then siphon off those checks.

Wright said no such cases have been discovered in Nebraska.

The checks were sent to county offices in cases of change of address or some unusual circumstances. Then the recipient would pick them up directly at the office.

The auditor objected to this procedure because there were no real controls, and it put the checks in the hands of those who determined eligibility and thus the amount of payment, Wright said.

Under new procedures, checks are held by the state agency until they can be sent directly to the recipient, or canceled if unclaimed.

Wright said the procedure has reduced by 25% the number of checks being held, Wright

Under new federal procedures, the state agency also is requiring social security numbers for all welfare recipients, including infants.

Wright said that regulation was another effort at building safeguards into the welfare

The system also is aimed at removing duplication between social security benefits and welfare benefits, said Wright.

North Platte (AP) - Most travelers driving along Interstate 80 in western Nebraska unknowingly pass under the steady gaze of the statue of a Sioux Indian atop the sandhills just south of the highway.

It was carved in the late 1920s by German sculptor Erbin Goeller who came to the United States shortly after World War I. It was dedicated in 1931 at a cost of $1,000. The hill, about 11 miles southeast of North Platte, was a lookout post and landmark for the Oregon Trail, the Overland Trail and the Pony Express.

The Sioux owned the area around the hill and used the high point to watch trappers and traders pass through the area in the early 1800s. Later, the Indians watched the long procession of wagons pass by on the Oregon Trail, known to the Indians as "The Great Medicine Road of the

The native Americans watched gold seekers enroute to California, homesteaders seeking free land and Mormons searching for a haven in Utah.

During the Indian Wars of 1864-65, the outlook gave a clear view of troop and Indian movements the surrounding area. Cyrus Fox, a Civil War veteran stationed at nearby Ft. McPherson, said the Indians were able to see the dust of wagon trains leaving Ft. Kearny, 80 miles to the east. In 1869, the transcontinental railroad brought slow death to the trail and later ended the white-Indian skirmishes. Fox began the movement to put up the statue which was formally put in place in 1931. By 1968 the statue had been seriously defaced by man and weather, and residents started a fund drive to restore the Sioux Lookout. Picnic facilities and landscaping in a parking area were added later.

Legislators Eye Official Bonding

Star Staff Writer

The Legislature's Government, Military and Veterans Affairs Committee launched a study Friday designed to revise or eliminate bonding requirements for various public officials.

One possibility is to have the state act as something of a "selfinsurer" against possible losses, rather than providing payment to private bonding companies. Senators generally agreed that state law now requires bonds for numerous officials who do not need them.

"Some of these requirements are really ridiculous," Sen. Larry Stoney of Omaha said.

Under study is Resolution 73, authored by Sen. Gary Anderson of Axtell, which suggests there may be "alternative methods of bonding that could be of considerable savings to the state." All kinds of public officials are now required to be bonded, even private merchants who sell hunting and fishing licenses. "There seems to be no relationship between the amounts of the bonds required and the officials," Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha noted, "and some of them don't need them at

At the suggestion of Sen. Herb Duis of Gothenburg, the committee directed a legislative staff compilation of all statutes relating to bonds.

Duis said he believes the state could provide some means of

"I don't know how it works now," he said. LR73 should provide "a worthwhile study" of current conditions, Duis said. Duis said he will be interested to find out how much the state pays for its officials' bonds.

Stoney said the study should also provide a look at the loss experience on bonds for public officials.

"WHY DO THE HEATHEN RAGE?"

Psalm 2 and Acts 4:25

A recent letter says: "Won't you please tell me who you are that writes the column "Why Do The Heathen Rage?" that appears in our newspaper every week? I have been reading this article for quite some time and look forward to reading the message to our nation, and to each individual as well. It is so applicable to, and so needed by our nation today

Truly it has been said that one cannot talk long about "self" without becoming vain. However, the above letter is greatly appreciated, very encouraging, and gives us quite a "lift." It is hard not to make some effort to meet this request. But it is also hard to digress even a little to talk about self when there are so many "gems" from God in His Word: "The Law of The Lord is perfect, converting the soul . . . more to be desired than gold, yea, than much fine gold; sweeter also than honey and the honeycomb" - Psalm 19 7 etc "FOR THOU HAST MAGNIFIED THY WORD ABOVE ALL THY NAME" -Psalm 138.2

The writer is a lyaman. Raised in a Christian home that was strict about "Singing the Song of Moses the servant of The Lord, and The Song of The Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world." The burden on Moses Song is the Moral Law of God. The Ten Commandments that reveal the very character of The Almighty. The message of The Lamb of God is deliverance from the wrath of God to "Whosoever Will." The wrath of God is due to our devil perverted nature and acts. The Lamb of God paid our penalty and offers the gift of a new heart wherein are written the Commandments of God by The Spirit of God; and also the gift of Eternal Life in the world to come, which world we enter by "falling asleep safe in the arms of Jesus," or by being "caught up to meet the Lord in the air when He cometh to make up His Jewels." (Hope we care not casting our pearls and gems before swine! We are warned against doing that. If you are a member of a Protestant Christian Church and don't believe these things, in God's Name, why don't you get out? How come you in there, anyway?)

The writer joined the Church when about twelve years of age. Though greatly blessed with the raising and environment he had, yet when he left school he faced the fact that he was "out of gear" with real Christianity and the vows made on joining the Church. He did not want to, nor did he intend to spend his life striving to fulfill them. "Then get out," he said to himself. "Resign your Church membership, and don't deliberately live the life of the hypocrite." Considering what a serious step it would be to "junk the hope of Eternal Life" offered in the Bible and Protestant Christianity, he purposed before resigning to "Search The Scriptures" himself — most he knew came secondhanded. Since that time, many years ago now, he has read the Bible from cover to cover several times each year. Mostly it was consecutive reading, not stopping unless attention was especially arrested. For quite a while his aim was to read at least thirty minutes a day. Later on he aimed at making it 60 minutes out of the 1,440 minutes in every 24 hours, figuring this was not too much time for making preparation for a life that never ends, eternity.

Not so long after beginning this exercise in "Searching The Scriptures" he became definitely aware of "the personality of the devil and spiritual wickedness in high places," and that these fearful enemies were fighting to keep him away from his Creator: fighting him with questionings, doubts, unbelief and even a resentful and rebellious spirit against The Almighty Himself. Through the mercy of God, during all this fearful period he never laid The Bible aside but kept reading it, and kept on outwardly performing his vows by church attendance and striving to obey God's Ten Commandments - commonhonesty and integrity required this until he resigned and got out of the Church. The Scriptures say "In due season you will reap, if you faint not in well doing." He found it to be true and in due time God's Word became "quick and powerful" in his own life. and made of him a man whose greatest desire and ambition was to "Know God and do His Will." For about twelve years after leaving school the writer was employed as a cotton buyer. Afterthe boll-weevil struck and changed things in that line, he went on a farm and has been there ever since. However, as a result of his experience in "Searching The Scriptures" his main interesthas been in "Sowing the Seed of The Word of God" in his own heart, and that of others: "Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God." These are the first recorded words spoken by Christ after His Baptism by John the Baptist. Several years ago God opened up the way to begin some "Advertising" of The Word of God. Thank God for all those who have written or by spoken word have said the ads have been helpful and inspiring in their Christian experience. Brethren pray for me, and pray that "The Word of God might have free course, and be glorified." It is our hope for time, and for Eternity, as individuals, as a nation, and the whole world.

'AN ALMIGHTY JUSTICE DOES VERILY RULE THIS WORLD, IT IS GOOD TO FIGHT ON GOD'S SIDE, AND BAD TO FIGHT ON THE DEVIL'S SIDE!"

"FOR NOTHING SHOULD THE PEOPLE OF GOD MORE." DEVOUTLY PRAY THAN THAT THEIR GREAT MEN MIGHT BE GOOD AND GOD-FEARING MEN."

The native Americans watched gold seekers enroute to California, homesteaders seeking free land and Mormons searching for a haven in Utah.

During the Indian Wars of 1864-65, the outlook gave a clear view of troop and Indian movements the surrounding area.

Cyrus Fox, a Civil War veteran stationed at nearby Ft. McPherson, said the Indians were able to see the dust of wagon trains leaving Ft. Kearny, 80 miles to the east.

In 1869, the transcontinental railroad brought slow death to the trail and later ended the white-Indian skirmishes.

Fox began the movement to put up the statue which was formally put in place in 1931.

By 1968 the statue had been seriously defaced by man and weather, and residents started a fund drive to restore the Sioux Lookout. Picnic facilities and landscaping in a parking area were added later.

Legislators Eye Official Bonding

Saturday, October 11, 1975 The Lincoln Star 5

Star Staff Writer

The Legislature's Government, Military and Veterans Affairs Committee launched a study Friday designed to revise or eliminate bonding requirements for various public officials.

One possibility is to have the state act as something of a "selfinsurer" against possible losses, rather than providing payment to private bonding companies.

Senators generally agreed that state law now requires bonds for numerous officials who do not need them.

'Some of these requirements are really ridiculous," Sen. Larry Stoney of Omaha said.

Under study is Resolution 73, authored by Sen. Gary Anderson of Axtell, which suggests there may be "alternative methods of bonding that could be of considerable savings to the state."

All kinds of public officials are now required to be bonded, even private merchants who sell hunting and fishing licenses. "There seems to be no relationship between the amounts of the bonds required and the officials," Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha noted, "and some of them don't need them at At the suggestion of Sen. Herb

"WHY DO THE HEATHEN RAGE?"

Psalm 2 and Acts 4:25

A recent letter says: "Won't you please tell me who you are that writes the column "Why Do The Heathen Rage?" that appears in our newspaper every week? I have been reading this article for quite some time and look forward to reading the message to our nation, and to each individual as well. It is so applicable to, and so needed by our nation today . .

Truly it has been said that one cannot talk long about "self" without becoming vain. However, the above letter is greatly appreciated, very encouraging, and gives us quite a "lift." It is hard not to make some effort to meet this request. But it is also hard to digress even a little to talk about self when there are so many "gems" from God in His Word: "The Law of The Lord is perfect, converting the soul . . . more to be desired than gold, yea, than much fine gold: sweeter also than honey and the honeycomb" - Psalm 19:7 etc. "FOR THOU HAST MAGNIFIED THY WORD ABOVE ALL THY NAME" -

The writer is a lyaman. Raised in a Christian home that was strict about "Singing the Song of Moses the servant of The Lord, and The Song of The Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world." The burden on Moses Song is the Moral Law of God. The Ten Commandments that reveal the very character of The Almighty. The message of The Lamb of God is deliverance from the wrath of God to "Whosoever Will." The wrath of God is due to our devil perverted nature and acts. The Lamb of God paid our penalty and offers the gift of a new heart wherein are written the Commandments of God by The Spirit of God; and also the gift of Eternal Life in the world to come, which world we enter by "falling asleep safe in the arms of Jesus;" or by being "caught up to meet the Lord in the air when He cometh to make up His Jewels." (Hope we care not casting our pearls and gems before swine! We are warned against doing that. If you are a member of a Protestant Christian Church and don't believe these things, in God's Name, why don't you get out? How come you in there, anyway?)

The writer joined the Church when about twelve years of age. Though greatly blessed with the raising and environment he had, yet when he left school he faced the fact that he was "out of gear" with real Christianity and the vows made on joining the Church. He did not want to, nor did he intend to spend his life. striving to fulfill them. "Then get out," he said to himself. "Resign your Church membership, and don't deliberately live the life of the hypocrite." Considering what a serious step it would be to "junk the hope of Eternal Life" offered in the Bible and Protestant Christianity, he purposed before resigning to 'Search The Scriptures' himself - most he knew came secondhanded. Since that time, many years ago now, he has read the Bible from cover to cover several times each year. Mostly it was consecutive reading, not stopping unless attention was especially arrested. For quite a while his aim was to read at least thirty minutes a day. Later on he aimed at making it 60 minutes out of the 1,440 minutes in every 34 hours, figuring this was not too much time for making preparation for a life that never ends,

Not so long after beginning this exercise in "Searching The Scriptures" he became definitely aware of "the personality of the devil and spiritual wickedness in high places," and that these fearful enemies were fighting to keep him away from his Creator: fighting him with questionings, doubts, unbelief and even a resentful and rebellious spirit against The Almighty Himself. Through the mercy of God, during all this fearful period he never laid The Bible aside but kept reading it, and kept on outwardly performing his vows by church attendance and striving to obey God's Ten Commandments - common honesty and integrity required this until he resigned and got out of the Church. The Scriptures say "In due season you will reap, if you faint not in well doing." He found it to be true and in due time God's Word became "quick and powerful" in his own life. and made of him a man whose greatest desire and ambition was to "Know God and do His Will." For about twelve years after leaving school the writer was employed as a cotton buyer. Afterthe boll-weevil struck and changed things in that line, he went on a farm and has been there ever since. However, as a result of his experience in "Searching The Scriptures" his main interest has been in "Sowing the Seed of The Word of God" in his own heart, and that of others: "Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God." These are the first recorded words spoken by Christ after His Baptism by John the Baptist. Several years ago God opened up the way to begin some "Advertising" of The Word of God. Thank God for all those who have written or by spoken word have said the ads have been helpful and inspiring in their Christian experience. Brethren pray for me, and pray that "The Word of God might have free course, and be glorified." It is our hope for time, and for Eternity, as individuals, as a nation, and the

Prostitution Case Closed

Omaha (AP) - Omaha Police Chief Richard Andersen Friday labeled "unsubstantiated," the allegations of a convicted prostitute, who said she has had sexual relations with about 60 Omaha police officers.

Police Say

As far as he's concerned, the case is closed, Andersen said during a 90-minute news conference, which was also attended by Mayor Edward Zorinsky and Public Safety Director Richard Roth

The woman, Mrs. Lois M. Bral, 44, of Omaha, made the claims in a broadcast interview aired earlier this week, saying she had "serviced" officers both on and off duty.

Andersen said the department's Internal Security Division conducted an investigation of the matter, and the report leads him to believe that five officers may have been sexually involved with Mrs. Bral, but that the incidents are unsubstantiated by any source.

Andersen said he has no reason to believe "any criminal acts were involved," and "that adultery incidents have never been, nor will they be in this case, pursued by the Omaha police.

Andersen said the five officers believed to have been involved with the woman been ordered to take counseling sessions, but that beyond that, no disciplinary action will be taken against them.

However, Curtis said the FWS has not even acknowledged his request for information.

UP Derailment Blocks Tracks Inside Kearney

Kearney (AP) - Twelve cars of a 144-car Union Pacific freight train derailed just inside the western city limits Friday morning, blocking both the east and westbound main lines.

Railroad officials said no one was injured when the eastbound train derailed, and that they are investigating to find the cause of the derailment.

Of the 12 derailed cars, only four were loaded, three of them with new automobiles.

Officials said they hoped to have the westbound tracks open by Friday afternoon. The clearing of eastbound tracks was expected to take longer.

A Message to Newspaper Carriers

A Golfing Prodigy. . . Johnny Miller swung his first golf club at the age of five. He was national Junior champion, a college All-American and, at 19, the low amateur in the '66 U.S. Open. He set U.S. Open and course records in winning the '73 Open and was named Golfer of the Year in 1974.

The ingredients for success are no secret from Johnny Miller, whose worldwide popularity, golfing excellence and engaging personality put him firmly in the company of all-time greats.

So you can be sure that he knows what he's talking about when he says that newspaper carriers have

"These young people," he says, "have the qualities to get ahead. Dedication, helpfulness, responsibility and willingness to work are all part of the makeup of every newspaper carrier." There's no doubt that these same traits explain why so many carriers are setting aside a part of their earnings for college and other important future needs.

Lots of them use U. S. Savings Bonds to build up this fund for the future, because they know they can count on Bonds. It's the kind of dependability they understand. So the Treasury Department is proud to join Johnny Miller in his tribute to newspaper carriers. We hope you'll join us in recognizing these young people this Newspaper Carrier Day, 1975.

Melchior Memorial To Be Dedicated

Blair - A memorial to Lauritz Melchior, the late Danish star of opera, stage and screen, will be dedicated Saturday on the campus of Dana College in Blair. The dedication ceremony is set for 10 a.m. in Alumni Memorial Auditorium at Dana, followed by an afternoon open house in the Melchior Room. An added flavor will be the assortment of Danish pastries and cheeses imported especially for the reception.

Police Say Prostitution Case Closed

Omaha (AP) - Omaha Police Chief Richard Andersen Friday labeled "unsubstantiated," the allegations of a convicted prostitute, who said she has had sexual relations with about 60 Omaha police officers.

As far as he's concerned, the case is closed, Andersen said during a 90-minute news conference, which was also attended by Mayor Edward Zorinsky and Public Safety Director Richard Roth.

The woman, Mrs. Lois M. Bral, 44, of Omaha, made the claims in a broadcast interview aired earlier this week, saying she had "serviced" officers both on and off duty.

Andersen said the department's Internal Security Division conducted an investigation of the matter, and the report leads him to believe that five officers may have been sexually involved with Mrs. Bral, but that Ogallalan Named the incidents are unsubstantiated by any source.

Andersen said he has no reason to believe "any criminal acts were involved," and "that adultery incidents have never been, nor will they be in this case, pursued by the Omaha police.

Andersen said the five officers believed to have been involved with the woman been ordered to take counseling sessions, but that beyond that, no disciplinary action will be taken against them.

A Message to Newspaper Carriers

from Johnny miller

"YOU'VE GOT WHAT IT TAKES!"

Johnny Miller swung his first golf club at the age of five. He was national Junior champion, a college All-American and, at 19, the low amateur in the '66 U.S. Open. He set U.S. Open and course records in winning the '73 Open and was named Golfer of the Year in 1974.

The ingredients for success are no secret from Johnny Miller, whose worldwide popularity, golfing excellence and engaging personality put him firmly in the company of all-time greats.

So you can be sure that he knows what he's talking about when he says that newspaper carriers have what it takes. "These young people," he says, "have the qualities to get ahead. Dedication, helpfulness, responsibility and willingness to work are all part of the makeup of every newspaper carrier." There's no doubt that these same traits explain why so many carriers are setting aside a part of their earnings for college and other important future needs. Lots of them use U. S. Savings Bonds to build up this fund for the future, because they know they can count on Bonds. It's the kind of dependability they understand. So the Treasury Department is proud to join Johnny Miller in his tribute to newspaper carriers. We hope you'll join us in recognizing these young people this Newspaper Carrier Day, 1975.

TV Proudly Presents . . . Public Access

By CYNTHIA JOHNSON Star Staff Writer

Got something you'd like to air? An opinion, a kazoo concerto, a dramatic reading?

Your chance is at hand. Lincoln's first public access television station - channel 10 for households subscribing to cable TV - will air its first citizen-produced program Saturday night.

And Tony Acone, general manager of Cablevision, hopes that the public access channel will eventually develop into a forum for a wide variety of "worthwhile" programming.

The one-hour segment, which will be broadcast Saturday at 6:30 p.m., is entitled "A Talk in the Attic: On Media and Other Things." Produced locally by Bread and Roses Video and Sunrise Communications, headed by Don Wesley and Ron Kurtenbach, the program will be repeated at 9:30 p.m. Oct. 12 and 19.

Public access television is just what its name indicates: Television, more specifically a given television channel, that is accessible to all citizens.

Any individual or group of people wishing to put together a program for broadcast - whether it be entertainment, political discussion, whatever - can do so on a public access channel.

Air Time Is Free

"The air time is free," said Acone. "The only charges that a person would incur are associated with' Cablevision-supplied personnel (cameramen, producer, technical director, etc.) and the video tape itself.

A half-hour tape can be made for somewhere in the vicinity of $30, if it is made at the Cablevision studio. Cablevision will also accept tapes made outside the studio by people who have the necessary equipment.

Acone said neighborhood groups, church groups, service organizations and the like might benefit from use of a public access channel.

It can also be used for broadcasting governmental meetings and entertainment programs.

"If it's worthwhile, I definitely want it," Acone said.

Theoretically, the public access channel could be used by citizens 24 hours a day. The amount of programming submitted will determine the number of hours reserved for public access on any given day.

والمراب والمناز والمراب والمراب والمرابي والمراب والمراب والمراب والمراب والمراب والمراب والمناز والمناز والمراب والمر

For some time, there have been attempts at getting a public access channel available on the cable system in Lincoln," Acone said.

Cablevision Takeover

But little progress was made until Cablevision Investors, Inc. - a subsidiary of Denver-based Daniels Properties - took over the cable operation earlier this year. It was previously run by the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co.

A 1972 Federal Communications Commission (FCC) ruling states that all cable systems must provide a public access channel by 1977.

But Acone said he feels that requirement may be lifted before the target date, in part because "the track record on public access . . . is not a good one."

Some public access channels established during the past few years (the first in 1971) have had problems with slander and pornography, Acone said.

To ensure that such problems don't develop in Lincoln, the City Council last June established a ninemember Cable Television Advisory Board whose job it is to screen tapes which may be of a questionable nature. Cablevision requested that such a group be established, Acone said.

'Majority Oriented'

"We (the Cablevision staff) think we know what people would like or dislike. We are majority oriented" when it comes to matters of taste, he continued.

But "we want any questionable material brought to us" to be reviewed by the advisory board.

Thus far, the board has reviewed one tape, according to chairperson the Rev. Richard Nesmith. Another Wesely-Kirtenbach venture, the half-hour tape is entitled "Person on the Street Interviews. The Black Sabbath Concert at Pershing Auditorium." It will be broadcast Oct. 12 and 19 at 9 p.m., and Oct. 18 at 6:30 p.m.

We saw that it was within the tolerance limits of Lincoln," Rev. Nesmith said of the tape which features interviews with rock concert-goers.

May Require Changes

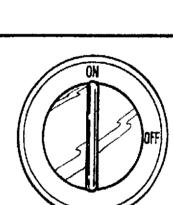

Cablevision will not edit any programming, Acone said. However, if the material is questionable, the advisory committee may make broadcast contingent on deletions which will be suggested to the tape producers.

"The (citizen) producer is responsible for the content" of each tape "in its entirety," Acone said, emphasizing the fact that Cablevision cannot be held liable for content

Both Nesmith and Acone feel that public access television has great potential in Lincoln. And Acone said he welcomes inquiries concerning participation.

Establishing a public access channel is a "very serious" venture, Acone said. "I t ank the people of Lincoln should be greatly intereded in this particular project" and "should take the time to view. . the programs that appear" and respond to them.

"I think the people will dictate what happens to this thing."

Parents Wish They Could Go Back To School

By DICK HOLMAN Star Staff Writer

"I wish I could go back to school," one parent wrote, pleased about the teacher's "openness."

The four high school principals in Lincoln all admit the same excitement about their new "reporting to parents conferences" this

Lincoln High School kicked off the venture this year, replacing the open house affairs that required parents to follow their children's class schedules, running throughout the building. Then, "There'd be a group of people in a room," said Principal

William B. Bogar, but they "couldn't really talk individually" to teachers. And if parents had more than one child enrolled, they couldn't see all the teachers in one session.

On Tuesday evening and Wednesday afternoon, teachers at desks with extra chairs filled the Lincoln High gym.

"I was able to visit all the teachers in one trip," said one of the 321 parents, in a conference evaluation. Bogar said there was little waiting, but if one teacher was busy, a parent could step nearby to confer with another.

Though about 15% of Lincoln High's 1,250 families turned out, Bogar rated that good "for the first time." He estimated there were 1.100 teacher-parent contacts. The evaluation sheets, developed by a teacher committee.

produced scarcely any negative comments, he said. Samples of the positive ones: We understand the problems better. We got to know the teacher as a person. We know now what steps to take to improve our child's work." Others cited the "intimacy," yet "informal, relaxing" atmosphere of the conference, with "two-way" talk allowed rather than a lecture. Two more Lincoln High conferences are set in January and February. The Lincoln Board of Education set three dates - Nov. 7, Jan. 22 and March 19, 1976 — as non-student attendance days to accommodate conferences, but schools may hold them at other times. Lincoln High chose its October date, Bogar said, because midquarter reports were out. Discussing those with parents would "be more helpful getting kids on the track" sooner, he said. The conferences follow the established pattern used by elementary schools, and the model piloted last year at Lincoln East High School.

Principal James S. Huge said the East conferences focus on "program planning." with each professional staff member advising about 20 to 22 students. Parents participate, but "in many cases, the students themselves conduct" the sessions.

Because any of the three conference dates "may be a poor day for parents," Huge said teachers are contacting them to arrange more convenient times.

The new high school approach represents an expansion of East's parent reporting conferences, Huge said, noting no release time had been allowed previously.

At Lincoln Southeast, Principal Wesley V. Lauterbach said.

"We've never had a formalized reporting to parent kind of thing before, although it was done on an individual basis as requested by Southeast has set its first sessions from 6.30 to 9:30 p.m. Nov.

17 and 18, in the gym. Counselors will first meet parents and distribute student report cards.

'We're hoping 75% of the families," more than 1,500, who have Southeast students will attend, Lauterbach said. Teachers will take the initiative to talk privately to parents, to replace the Jan. 22 session, and the next formal one will be April 5-6.

"Our model," said Lincoln Northeast Principal Harold P. Dietrich, "is a little different than the other high schools."

Conferences are "made on an appointment basis only. Each parent has been asked to call the office" and choose three teachers for talks, he said.

Northeast sessions will be Monday and Tuesday from 7-9 p.m. each evening, and Wednesday from 3:30-6 p.m.

Dietrich said each teacher was also asked to contact any five of their students' parents, to arrange appointments. The response "looks very good," he said.

No further dates have been scheduled at Northeast, Dietrich said, noting teachers will evaluate parents' opinions of the first conference. But it's almost certain more will follow The principals stressed that parent contact with school officials and teachers isn't limited to the conferences. They encouraged parents to make appointments anytime.

waiting, but if one teacher was busy, a parent could step nearby to confer with another.

Though about 15% of Lincoln High's 1.250 families turned out. Bogar rated that good "for the first time." He estimated there were 1,100 teacher-parent contacts.

The evaluation sheets, developed by a teacher committee, produced scarcely any negative comments, he said.

Samples of the positive ones: We understand the problems better. We got to know the teacher as a person. We know now what steps to take to improve our child's work.' Others cited the "intimacy," yet "informal, relaxing" atmosphere of the conference, with "two-way" talk allowed rather than a lecture. Two more Lincoln High conferences are set in January and February. The Lincoln Board of Education set three dates - Nov. 7, Jan.

22 and March 19, 1976 - as non-student attendance days to accommodate conferences, but schools may hold them at other times. Lincoln High chose its October date, Bogar said, because midquarter reports were out. Discussing those with parents would "be more helpful getting kids on the track" sooner, he said. The conferences follow the established pattern used by elementary schools, and the model piloted last year at Lincoln East

Principal James S. Huge said the East conferences focus on 'program planning," with each professional staff member advising about 20 to 22 students. Parents participate, but "in many cases, the students themselves conduct" the sessions. Because any of the three conference dates "may be a poor day for parents," Huge said teachers are contacting them to arrange more convenient times.

The new high school approach represents an expansion of East's parent reporting conferences, Huge said, noting no release time had been allowed previously.

At Lincoln Southeast, Principal Wesley V. Lauterbach said, "We've never had a formalized reporting to parent kind of thing before, although it was done on an individual basis as requested by Southeast has set its first sessions from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Nov. 17 and 18, in the gym. Counselors will first meet parents and distribute student report cards.

"We're hoping 75% of the families," more than 1,500, who have Southeast students will attend, Lauterbach said. Teachers will take the initiative to talk privately to parents, to replace the Jan. 22 session, and the next formal one will be April 5-6.

"Our model," said Lincoln Northeast Principal Harold P. Dietrich, "is a little different than the other high schools." Conferences are "made on an appointment basis only. Each parent has been asked to call the office" and choose three teachers for talks, he said. Northeast sessions will be Monday and Tuesday from 7-9 p.m.

each evening, and Wednesday from 3:30-6 p.m. Dietrich said each teacher was also asked to contact any five of their students' parents, to arrange appointments. The response "looks very good," he said.

No further dates have been scheduled at Northeast, Dietrich said, noting teachers will evaluate parents' opinions of the first conference. But it's almost certain more will follow. The principals stressed that parent contact with school officials and teachers isn't limited to the conferences. They encouraged parents to make appointments anytime.

Star Staff Writer

The Justice for Lewis Committee asked Friday for a grand jury investigation of the Sherdell Lewis shooting if County Atty. Ron Lahners has not completed his investigation of the incident by 4 p.m. Monday.

In a meeting with Mayor Helen Boosalis, Jesse Payne, chairman of the 12-member committee, asked her "to use the influence of your office to encourage Lahners to release the information.

"And if no information is released (by Monday) I would appeal to you to use the influence of your office to call a grand jury," he said.

Mrs. Boosalis told approximately 60 people attending the meeting at the Malone Community Center, at 2030 T St., that she is "quite assured that we should have information, insofar as the county attorney is able to release it, by your time.'

Lahners said Friday afternoon that he hopes to see portions of the FBI investigation Monday and will complete his investigation Monday afternoon at the earliest.

A grand jury investigation would not answer community questions, he said, because it' proceedings are secret and only an indictment could be made

No Deadline For Appointments To Police Review Board Slated

Mayor Helen Boosalis hasn't vet set a deadline for appointing seven people to the newly created Police Review Board.

Because Mrs. Boosalis considers appointments to that board to be "extremely important," she expects she will end up screening applicants herself and conducting personal interviews.

The mayor said she will be sending out letters to people who have expressed an interest in serving on the lay panel or whose names have been recommended to her. The letters will ask the potential applicants to explain their interest in serving on the board and to explain what they can contribute to the board's operation.

BRANCH . OFFICE Our town philosopher calls our church "God's branch office." He means no sacrilege because he is a very religious man. He puts into words the feelings that unite all Christians. Rituals may differ . . . doctrines may not always agree . . . denominational labels may seem to keep us apart. Still we share the wondrous

There is no time when this bond of faith is expressed more vividly than on Worldwide Communion Sunday. In our little church about sixty of us will gather. Around the world there will be millions. Together we'll join in an experience that began on the eve of Christ's crucifixion. Marijuana Mouse Dying

Marty, the marijuana-eating mouse who used to raid a police narcotics evidence locker, is dying, but not from an overdose. San Jose, Calif., police officers say it's from old age and a broken heart. Marty, shown in his better days, lost his companion, a little field mouse named Mata Hari, two weeks ago. Marty hasn't been the same since.

Six Young Whoopers Begin Migration With Foster Parents

Washington (UPI) - Six young whooping cranes, hatched by helpful Sandhill cranes in Idaho, have begun a hazardous migration to New Mexico in an instinct-twisting experiment to help save whoopers from extinction.

The Interior Department said so Friday, and raised the big question: Will birds of a different feather flock together?

"The young whoopers and their foster parent Sandhills are apparently happy and began migrating this week," said Fish and Wildlife Service spokesman Alan Levitt.

"It is works, it will be one of the most important techniques ever developed in the conservation of endangered species."

There are only 49 adult whooping cranes left in the wild. And the flock of big, white birds which normally migrate from Canada to Texas and back - is threatened by disease, weather, damaged habitat and other problems.

Levitt said that by transplanting whooper eggs from their Canadian nesting grounds to the Sandhill nests in Idaho last May, naturalists hope eventually to establish a new colony of whoopers and add a new migration route to their cycle. "The Sandhills, which are not endangered, summer and winter in national wildlife refuges, where they are better protected," Levitt said. Fourteen of the green and mottled brown whooper eggs - about the size of an oblong baseball - were taken from their Canadian nests and placed in the Sandhill nests at Grays Lake National Wildlife Refuge in Idaho in late May, he

"Nine hatched, and the six that lived and recently attained flight stage have been well accepted by their foster parents."

One of the six young whoopers already has been seen with its foster parents at the Monte Vista National Wildlife Refuge in Colorado. That's where Sandhills normally spend a month before flying on to Bosque del Apache Refuge in central New Mexico in mid-November.

The adopted whoopers - which normally reach maturity in five years - still face a hazardous journey due to accidental shootings, disease, weather and a possible lack of food.

The Interior Department said this also has been a good year for Whoopers in Canada due to good weather. Eight eggs have hatched and the young are getting ready to fly south to Texas with

Patty's Traveling Companions Given Delay in Entering Pleas

LOS ANGELES (AP) - was the second in two weeks for William and Emily Harris, Patty the Harrises. They were granted Hearst's fugitive traveling com- a one-week delay last Friday so their choice, can sometimes buy panions, were arraigned here Mrs. Harris could retain an at-Friday on charges of kidnaping, torney for her defense. robbery and assault.

The Harrises, arrested in San Francisco last month, shortly before Miss Hearst was apprehended, won a one-week delay in entering their pleas so that their attorneys can read a transcript of the grand jury proceedings that led to the indictments.

Mrs. Harris accepted activist attorney Leonard Weinglass as her counsel, saying she couldn't find a suitable woman attorney to represent her.

The delay in entering a plea

Mrs. Harris addressed the iudge for about five minutes, explaining why she was dropping previous attempt to have a woman represent her.

Because the legal profession has been male-dominated, there are very few women attorneys," she told Superior Court Judge William Ritzi.

She said that the women who practice law in the Los Angeles area are too busy to take her case and those from other parts of the country cannot afford to

"It's an obvious contradietion," she said, "that people of money can buy the defense of justice and freedom."

She said she felt Weinglass, who helped in the defense of the Chicago Seven and Pentagon papers trials, is sympathetic to her views and would represent her appropriately. "I have total trust and confidence in Mr. Weinglass . . . his style of wok, the way he relates to me as a woman and his approach to political questions," The judge told Mrs. Harris that he would appoint Weinglass at court expense since she does not have money to pay an abtorney but would not under any circumstances appoint a second

The Wallace campaign report showed total receipts for the year of $2,519,713, with 1975 expenditures for nine months of $1,973,869. Aside from the $525,-000 spent for postage and direct mail services, Wallace also spent $305,000 during July, August and September on other campaign expenditures, for a total outlay of $830,000.

The Alabama governor, who has not yet announced his candidacy for the 1976 presidential contest, had $744,000 on hand at the end of the three-month period, but owed $85,000, all to a direct mail services firm.

Other Democratic presidential campaign financial reports:

Marijuana Mouse Dying

Marty, the marijuana-eating mouse who used to raid a police narcotics evidence locker, is dying, but not from an overdose. San Jose, Calif., police officers say it's from old age and a broken heart. Marty, shown in his better days, lost his companion, a little field mouse named Mata Hari, two weeks ago. Marty hasn't been the same since.

Mother, Son Both Sign Up

Merced, Calif. (UPI) - Ethel Fleming marched her 17-yearold son Michael down to the local Army recruiting office, and they both ended up joining.

"In the 10 years that I've been a recruiter this is the first time I've ever heard of it happening,' said Sgt. 1-C. Herbert A Harrison, who signed up the pair.

Michael left Merced to begin basic training at Ft. Ord and Mrs. Fleming, 34, who is separated from her husband. leaves next week for basic training at Ft. McClellan, Ala.

Mother and son will be rejoined after basic training for 12 more weeks of training at the Army Transportation School in Virginia and may well be assigned to the same base after their training is completed.

Six Young Whoopers Begin Migration With Foster Parents

Washington (UPI) - Six young whooping cranes, hatched by helpful Sandhill cranes in Idaho, have begun a hazardous migration to New -sub S½ SE 21-10-6 B9 L6 ex W134 & 3 tnts & ex so. 27 ft all L7, Mexico in an instinct-twisting experiment to help save whoopers from extinction.

The Interior Department said so Friday, and raised the big question: Will birds of a different feather flock together?

"The young whoopers and their foster parent Sandhills are apparently happy and began migrating this week," said Fish and Wildlife Service spokesman Alan Levitt. 'It is works, it will be one of the most important techniques ever developed in the conservation of endangered species. There are only 49 adult whooping cranes left in the wild. And the flock of big, white birds which normally migrate from Canada to Texas and back - is threatened by disease, weather, damaged habitat and other problems.

Levitt said that by transplanting whooper eggs from their Canadian nesting grounds to the Sandhill nests in Idaho last May, naturalists hope eventually to establish a new colony of whoopers and add a new migration route to their cycle. "The Sandhills, which are not endangered,

Fourteen of the green and mottled brown whooper eggs - about the size of an oblong baseball - were taken from their Canadian nests and placed in the Sandhill nests at Gravs Lake National Wildlife Refuge in Idaho in late May, he

"Nine hatched, and the six that lived and recently attained flight stage have been well accepted by their foster parents.'

One of the six young whoopers already has been seen with its foster parents at the Monte Vista National Wildlife Refuge in Colorado. That's where Sandhills normally spend a month before flying on to Bosque del Apache Refuge in central New Mexico in mid-November.

The adopted whoopers - which normally reach maturity in five years - still face a hazardous journey due to accidental shootings, disease, weather and a possible lack of food.

The Interior Department said this also has been a good year for Whoopers in Canada due to good weather. Eight eggs have hatched and the young are getting ready to fly south to Texas with their own parents.

It costs around $160 to buy and install an easy-to-operate citizens band radio in your car. And with it, you're never out of touch when help is needed.

Channel 9 is reserved for emergencies. If you place a call, you'll be heard by many other CB buffs in your area truckers, drivers near you on the road, even the police in those states (like Ohio) where many patrol cars have CB equipment.

A study by Wayne State University in Detroit concluded that the ready network of CB monitors helped patrol cars get to the scene of a traffic problem an average of 17 minutes faster than if they waited to hear about relayed to a REACT member the trouble on regular police

The real secret behind that swift reaction to emergencies is a citizens volunteer group called REACT (Radio Emergency Associated Citizens Teams).

Prices Mixed In Listless Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) - Stocks were mixed Friday in a listless market that failed to respond to some sharp declines in interest

Analysts blamed the market's sluggishness on caution and concern over New York City's financial troubles.

Big Board volume slackened off to 14.88 million shares from 17.77 million on Thursday.

Federal Reserve figures issued after Thursday's close had shown another decline in the nation's money supply.

That brought the growth of the total of cash and demand deposits in the economy for the last three months to only a 1.6 per cent annual rate-considerably below the Fed's stated target range of 5 to 7½ per cent.

With that evidence before them, many Wall Streeters were drawing the conclusion that the Fed would feel an increasing inclination to loosen its credit policy-which traditionally means lower interest rates as well as stimulation of economic

The credit markets reacted enthusiastically, with bonds rallying sharply and yields on 13week Treasury bills falling nearly 1/4 point—a particularly sharp move for a single day.

By JANE BRYANT QUINN New York - This is one column that's not about saving money. It's about spending money to make your hours on the road a lot safer.

It costs around $160 to buy and install an easy-to-operate citizens band radio in your car. And with it, you're never out of touch when help is needed.

Channel 9 is reserved for emergencies. If you place a call, you'll be heard by many other CB buffs in your area truckers, drivers near you on the road, even the police in those states (like Ohio) where many patrol cars have CB equipment.

A study by Wayne State University in Detroit concluded that the ready network of CB monitors helped patrol cars get to the scene of a traffic problem an average of 17 minutes faster than if they waited to hear about the trouble on regular police radio

The real secret behind that swift reaction to emergencies is a citizens volunteer group called REACT (Radio Emergency Associated Citizens Teams).

Area Teams More than 200,000 people in all parts of the country belong to this organization, which is sponsored by General Motors. They are organized into 1,000 teams. Each team monitors the emergency channel in its own

Wheat Futures End With Gain

Chicago (AP) — Wheat futures rallied in the closing minutes and ended with a gain of nearly 5 cents a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade Friday.

Soybeans lost 31/2 cents while oats were down 21/2 and corn closed mixed. Soybean meal was down about $1 a ton and soybean oil prices were irregular. Iced broilers were down 1/2 cent a pound after a very lightly traded session.

Gold futures closed nearly $2 an ounce higher under somewhat improved late demand. Trade earlier had been

Grand Island — Grand Island took advantage of two second half turnovers to down the Lincoln Southeast Knights 28-20 here Friday night in a Trans-Nebraska Conference game.

Baker and Barry Bamesberger came up with the big plays to protect the sixth-rated Islander come-from-behind victory.

With the score tied 20-20 Bamesberger halted a LSE drive at the Grand Island 32 intercepting a screen pass which set the Islanders up at their 33. Five crashed over from the three to give Grand Island its first lead in the game, 26-20.

Quarterback Mike Hansen then hit Steve Frei on the conversion to give GI a 28-20 lead.

The Knights answered with an impressive 43-yard drive to the Grand Island 39 but three straight quarterback sacks by noseguard Baker kept the Knights at bay.

Southeast had another opportunity with two minutes left in the game but consecutive sacks by Bamesberger and Baker stalled the Knights once again to preserve the victory.

Southeast took a 6-0 lead late in the first quarter when running back Jim Bolin took a pitch from quarterback Ed Davis 7 yards around the right end to cap an opening LSE drive.

Then Mark Lanik set the Knights up once again intercepting a Hansen pass at the LSE 27 as time expired in the opening quarter.

Two plays later Davis completely surprised the GI defense

East's second tie of the season during the initial year of prep football playoffs, Zentic was vocal over his dislike for tie

"I really don't know how this figures out in the playoffs and I don't care right now," Zentic said. "Football is a game made to win or lose and I just hate

"I know Bob will say the same thing about his team, but I think we've got a better football team," he added. "We came out and took it to 'em the first half although we might have slacked off a bit after the first touchdown."

"I think we came out and took it to 'em that second half," Els said. "We were down and had to come back. Sure we got a punt return for a score, but I don't care if you score on a flea flicker, punt return or whatever, if you get the ball in the end zone, that's the name of the game."

With East's 17-yard score by Craig Bohl and Northeast's 58yard punt return by Steve Eliker, the Spartans' all-state fullback Sam Yowell was left off the scoring list.

In fact, the Northeast defense limited Yowell to just 22 yards in nine attempts and East's defense limited Eliker to just eight yards in nine tries. Both were among the state's top 10 Class A rushers.

"We just tried to call plays we thought would go," Zentic said referring to Yowell carrying just nine times. "We just didn't have any success with Sam's plays in the middle."

Els was pleased Yowell carried just nine times.

"I'm glad they thought we could stop Yowell inside," Els said. "I thought we played an outstanding defensive game."

KU Has The Ingredients

Even though Kansas hasn't beaten Nebraska since 1968 and the Jayhawks have scored just nine points in the last four contests while yielding 176, Saturday's game in Memorial Stadium promises to be very competitive. That fact may come as quite a surprise if you haven't been reading the newspapers the last three weeks. As one writer put it, "Kansas, unheralded, unranked and unregarded at the football season's start, has emerged as the ugly duckling of Big Eight Conference football this season.' There are several reasons for this — not just the sparkling play of converted quarterback Nolan Cromwell. High on the list has to be new coach Bud Moore, who has put in an explosive offense and a fundamentally sound defense. Another reason is halfback Laverne Smith, All-Big Eight runner a vear ago who was second only to Oklahoma's Joe

Washington and ahead of Missouri's Tony Galbreath in rushing. He averaged 107 yards a game carrying the ball. Kansas also has a fine fullback in Norris Banks, a 6-3, 210 pound transfer from Coffeyville (Kan.) Junior College, who has averaged 5.2 yards on 51 carries. The Jayhawks complement Smith and Banks with three right halfbacks who have shared duty this season, but who, when their statistics are combined, give that position a healthy look. Skip Sharp, Eric Franklin and Bill Campfield have combined for a 7.1-yard average on 16

So, Kansas has all the options — fullback dive, quarterback keep, and pitch to either halfback spot — to make the wishbone

How Nebraska handles the Javhawks will provide a clue on how the Huskers will fare in the Big Eight race.

Confusion Eliminated

There were few eyebrows raised when Kansas stumbled to an 18-14 loss to Washington State in the season opener and then surprised a Kentucky team which doesn't appear to be going anywhere. Through the first two games, Kansas generated just 99 offensive plays compared with its opponents' 164 while compiling a meager 411 yards total offense compared with 609 for WSU and UK.

Things have changed the last two weeks, starting with a 20-0 win over Oregon State in which Cromwell rushed for 294 yards and KU totaled 471 yards in total offense. Last week, Cromwell ran for 187 yards as the Jayhawks gained 454 yards total offense in a 41-7 romp over highly-regarded Wisconsin.

Why the turnabout? Moore explains it: "We were trying to do too much with the offense earlier," he said. "I'm taking full responsibility for it. I forgot this was not Alabama where we had been running the wishbone for several years. It was a completely new offense to our people and it's going to take time to fully implement it.

'We've cut it down to a very few basic running and passing

Everyone knows his responsibility and exactly what he is to do every play. The result is our execution has improved tremendously and our mistakes have been minimized. the reason is he's playing both guards. "It may be we'll eventually find a spot for him to start; yet he's very valuable where he is now. We've got three pretty good guards, but the one who's probably playing the best isn't star-

Grand Island — Grand Island took advantage of two second half turnovers to down the Lincoln Southeast Knights 28-20 here Friday night in a Trans-Nebraska Conference game.

Defensive linemen Gunther Baker and Barry Bamesberger came up with the big plays to protect the sixth-rated Islander come-from-behind victory.

With the score tied 20-20 Bamesberger halted a LSE drive at the Grand Island 32 intercepting a screen pass which set the Islanders up at their 33. Five plays later fullback Ron Phillips crashed over from the three to give Grand Island its first lead in the game, 26-20.

Quarterback Mike Hansen then hit Steve Frei on the conversion to give GI a 28-20 lead. The Knights answered with an impressive 43-yard drive to the Grand Island 39 but three straight quarterback sacks by noseguard Baker kept the Knights at bay.

Southeast had another opportunity with two minutes left in the game but consecutive sacks by Bamesberger and Baker stalled the Knights once again to preserve the victory.

Southeast took a 6-0 lead late in the first quarter when running back Jim Bolin took a pitch from quarterback Ed Davis 7 yards around the right end to cap an opening LSE drive.

Then Mark Lanik set the Knights up once again intercepting a Hansen pass at the LSE 27 as time expired in the opening quarter.

With East's 17-yard score by Craig Bohl and Northeast's 58vard punt return by Steve Eliker, the Spartans' all-state fullback Sam Yowell was left off the scoring list.

In fact, the Northeast defense limited Yowell to just 22 yards in nine attempts and East's defense limited Eliker to just eight yards in nine tries. Both were among the state's top 10 Class A rushers.

East-Rockets End In Draw

By RANDY YORK

Prep Sports Editor Get out your computers, folks. It looks like a race to the finish line for football powers Lincoln East and Lincoln Northeast.

A 7-7 tie before 10,452 fans at Seacrest Field Friday night most certainly sent most home, shaking their heads and wondering which team was hurt most for state playoff purposes.

At this point, no answer can be given. First, both teams must sweep through the rest of their schedules. If that happens, it would boil down to three comparisons. They would involve Omaha

Gross and North Platte (teams East Plays, not on Northeast's schedule) and Fremont (a Northeast opponent not on East's schedule). A variety of point situations can develop from such possibilities. Northeast coach Bob Els observed "we didn't have any computers on the sideline' when his Rockets pulled within 7-6 with 10:06 remaining in the fourth quarter.

"We were trying to decide what to do on the PAT. Since we didn't have a computer handy. we went for the kick," Els said of Jim Gades' kick after Steve Eliker's gutty 58-yard punt return touchdown.

"Truthfully, we couldn't afford a loss," Els said in explaining his decision. "We also thought we had control of the ball game and figured we were going to get more opportunities to score.

It didn't happen. Northeast was checked to a minus 19 yards rushing in the second half and a repeat of a 7-7 tie three years ago when both teams finished unbeaten was duplicated.

Punting figured in both team's only touchdowns. East lit the scoreboard with 38 seconds remaining in the first quarter when hard-running junior Craig Bohl swept right end for a 17vard touchdown.

The opportunity was set up two plays earlier when Northeast punter Ted Bulling fumbled a snap from center and managed only an eight-yarder.

East's Kevin Colerick fielded the short punt on Northeast's 25 and returned it to the 22. Sam Yowell then busted for five yards to set up Bohl's sweep.

Eliker's 58-yard TD came on a high, 38-yard East punt. He fielded it on the run and used his outstanding hurdle speed from track in a footrace to the end

Els Votes for Eliker

"If I have my choice of backs, mine is Eliker." Els said. "If for no other reason, because he got the ball in the end zone tonight. I think there were two all-state backs on the field tonight."

The other was East fullback Yowell, the state's leading Class A rusher, who surprisingly never became a big factor in the out-

He carried the ball only nine times and finished with 22 yards.

"I just caught the ball. I didn't even think about a fair catch,' Eliker said of his touchdown. "When I looked up and got through the crowd, I knew it was going all the way.'

In post-game reactions, East coach Lee Zentic clearly was the most visably upset.

"I hate ties," he said. "I'm just so darn disappointed because we took the fight to them, then fell asleep on one play. I hate to take anything away from Eliker because he

Both coaches claimed they have not computed possibilities that a tie will inflict on their respective playoff chances.

"I haven't even figured what could happen," Zentic said.

"All I know is we can't afford to lose." Els said with the obvious thought in the back of his mind that East already has suffered a tie against North Platte. on a fourth down incomplete

"I got the feeling that both pass. teams might have been out there all night if there was such a thing as an overtime," Els said.

Both theams, billed as ones with "big play" offensive potential, were shut down. East finished with only seven first downs and 143 yards total offense Northeast managed but nine first downs and 109 total yards. The Rockets, however, accumulated 118 return yards.

"I think both teams just know each other too well," Els said. "That's why this always turns into a defensive battle.

Zentic was proudest of his team's goal line stand late in the third quarter and the first play of the final period. Northeast failed to capitalize on a golden opportunity when Joe Prai intercepted Yowell's fullback pass and returned it to the East 30.

A couple of Doug Berka passes gave the Rockets a first and goal situation on the seven. Bohl then tackled Northeast fullback Virgil Haase for a one-yard loss and the Rockets lost two more on the next play with Mike Sales trying to turn left end.

East tackle Scott Schaefer then nailed Berka for a four-yard loss and the Rocket bid fizzled

The determined goal line stand was nullified four plays later after East's offense stalled and Eliker burned the Spartans with the punt return touchdown. The Rockets won the attendance battle to celebrate homecoming. Northeast counted 5,568 spectators while 4,884 backed East.

KU Has The Ingredients

Even though Kansas hasn't beaten Nebraska since 1968 and the Jayhawks have scored just nine points in the last four contests while yielding 176, Saturday's game in Memorial Stadium promises to be very competitive.

That fact may come as quite a surprise if you haven't been reading the newspapers the last three weeks. As one writer put it, "Kansas, unheralded, unranked and unregarded at the football season's start, has emerged as the ugly duckling of Big Eight Conference football this season." There are several reasons for this - not just the sparkling play of converted quarterback Nolan Cromwell. High on the list has to be new coach Bud Moore, who has put in an explosive offense and a fundamentally sound defense. Another reason is halfback Laverne Smith, All-Big Eight runner a year ago who was second only to Oklahoma's Joe Washington and ahead of Missouri's Tony Galbreath in rushing. He averaged 107 yards a game carrying the ball. Kansas also has a fine fullback in Norris Banks, a 6-3, 210 pound transfer from Coffeyville (Kan.) Junior College, who has averaged 5.2 yards on 51 carries. The Jayhawks complement Smith and Banks with three right halfbacks who have shared duty this season, but who, when their statistics are combined give that position a healthy look. Skip Sharp, Eric Franklin and Bill Campfield have combined for a 7.1-yard average on 16 keep, and pitch to either halfback spot - to make the wishbone

So, Kansas has all the options - fullback dive, quarterback

How Nebraska handles the Jayhawks will provide a clue on how the Huskers will fare in the Big Eight race.

Confusion Eliminated

There were few eyebrows raised when Kansas stumbled to an 18-14 loss to Washington State in the season opener and then surprised a Kentucky team which doesn't appear to be going anywhere. Through the first two games, Kansas generated just 99 offensive plays compared with its opponents' 164 while compiling a meager 411 yards total offense compared with 609 for WSU and UK.

Things have changed the last two weeks, starting with a 20-0 win over Oregon State in which Cromwell rushed for 294 yards and KU totaled 471 yards in total offense. Last week, Cromwell ran for 187 yards as the Jayhawks gained 454 yards total offense in a 41-7 romp over highly-regarded Wisconsin. Why the turnabout? Moore explains it: "We were trying to do too much with the offense earlier," he said. "I'm taking full responsibility for it. I forgot this was not Alabama where we had been running the wishbone for several years. It was a completely new offense to our people and it's going to take time to fully 'We've cut it down to a very few basic running and passing plays. This has eliminated the confusion that existed earlier. Everyone knows his responsibility and exactly what he is to do every play. The result is our execution has improved tremendously and our mistakes have been minimized. We're making good progress although we still have a long way to go.' Nebraska has been much the same kind of offensive team, momentum with each victory. A good example of this progress is sophomore guard Greg Jorgensen of Minden. "Greg is playing pretty well right now," Husker coach Tom Osborne said. "As a matter of fact, he's grading about as well as improving week-by-week in the offensive line and gaining any offensive lineman we're got. Yet he's running No. 2. Part of the reason is he's playing both guards. "It may be we'll eventually find a spot for him to start; yet he's very valuable where he is now. We've got three pretty good guards, but the one who's probably playing the best isn't star-following a bad snap on a punt which gave the Wahoo club the ball on the Scotus 11-yard line.

However, a 15-yard penalty was assessed against Neumann. But Neumann's Doug Lanik con-Crete's Tim Kirkpatrick nected with Joe Stejskal a 26yard strike for the winning six point.

Earlier in the quarter Lanik set up Neumann's second TD on a 56-yard pass to Nick Maly to the Scotus 3-yard line. Again a 15-yard penalty moved Neumann back.

But Lanik came through, in the final stanza, with Kim again hitting Maly for 16 yards to the Scotus two-yard line. John The converson tied the score at Cerv then bulled over for the DALLAS (AP) - Freshman safety David Hill tipped away a two-point conversion pass and returned an intercepted pass for a touchdown late in the fourth period Friday night, carrying Southern Methodist to a 28-13 Southwest Conference victory and handing Texas Christian its 15th consecutive loss.

Hill's first big play came after Ronnie Littleton had plunged two yards for a TCU touchdown in a furious fourthperiod comeback that brought the score to 14-13. TCU Coach Jim Shofner, who had seen his Horned Frogs lose 14 consecutive games for major college football's longest futility streak, decided to go for the two points.

Selmer: Penalty Costly

MIAMI (AP) - Carl Selmer, still looking for his first football victory as head coach of the University of Miami, didn't have to look far to explain his fourth loss of the season.

only 17-10 at the time, but the Bufffaloes marched ahead for a clinching touchdown after the penalty.

"We had stopped them, and because of the error we gave the ball to them," moaned Selmer. Colorado's Bill' Mallory whose team is now 4-1, joined Midland football coach Don Watchorn said he'll take another one-point win over Doane any time, including this Saturday in Fremont at 7:30 p.m.

"They can just stay home and give us a one point win and I'll be happy," said Watchorn, whose Warriors nipped the Tigers 7-6 last year for Midland's first win in the series that started in 1968.

"It's always an exciting game when we play each other, and this one should be no exception," the 1974 District 11 NAIA coach of the year said.

Midland, 4-1, and 1-0 in the Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, blasted previously undefeated Hastings 42-21 last week.

"We just had a great game against Hastings," Watchorn said. "And our defense had an exceptional game holding Hastings to -5 yards rushing."

Sapio Sparkles

"Our pass rush improved and we got to Schultz (Hastings quarterback Rod) about seven times and that really made a difference," said Watchorn. Safety Ralph Sapio, the only returning letterman in the Midland defensive backfield, also helped the Warriors by intercepting two Bronco passes for touchdowns.

offense with a 109.6 average.

Doane Rushing

"It puts a lot of pressure on us to just contain their outside game," said Watchorn, "and then we have to watch their backs Schulz (fullback Steve) and Elm (halfback Ted) because they're good too."

Offensively the Warriors haven't had to wait to see results.

Most of last year's 11-0 backfield returned including allstate performers halfback Rick Klug, quarterback Dean Olsen and tailback Dexter Brown.

Klug, who is the second leading rusher in the state with a whopping 7.6-yards per carry average, teams with Brown to keep the Midland wishbone on top of the state rushing statistics.

"Klug and Brown get most of their yards going to the outside, and most of our inside yardage comes from fullback John Smith," said Watchorn. "He's probably the most underrated man on our team, because he keeps defenses honest by fighting for the inside yards," Watchorn said of the 5-7, 175pound sophomore.

Watchorn is anxiously awaiting the day when Brown and Klug both have good days. "Last week Klug had a great runs the option well and likes to day. The week before Brown had a good game. They seem to trade Doane quarterback Gary off between a good performance Knapp currently ranks fourth in and a so-so game," Watchorn the state colleges for total said. "But if we can get them

'Pokes, Mizzou Ready

By DAVE SITTLER

Columbia, Mo. - With preseason Big Eight Conference publicity about Oklahoma and the Seven Dwarfs turning out to be a pile of malarkey, Oklahoma State and Missouri will battle here Saturday to prove they've grown from dwarfs to giants.

A sellout crowd of more than 60,000 is expected to fill Missouri's Farout Field for the Tiger-Cowboy shootout a conference-opener for both schools.

Since Oklahoma has proven it's mortal with narrow wins over Miami and Colorado, the conference race appears wideopen. Missouri and Oklahoma appear to possess the talent to compete for the league crown.

Both teams are coming off successful pre-conference performances which have gained them spots in the nation's top 20. Oklahoma State holds down the No. 10 spot in UPI and No. 14 in AP. Missouri was ranked ahead of the Cowboys at No. 12 in AP, but merited only No. 18 in the UPI poll.

Fifth Once

squad had been ranked as high as fifth in the nation earlier this season after an impressive 20-7 win over Alabama and victories over Illinois and Wisconsin.

Minus all-American running back Tony Galbreath, Missouri was ripped by Michigan, 31-7, last Saturday in Ann Arbor.

Oklahoma State, meanwhile, is riding the crest of its most successful start in 30 years. The 'Pokes 4-0 record makers the first time an OSU club has won its first four games since 1945 when the squad finished 9-0 and won the Sugar Bowl.

"It's a whole new season for us," Oklahoma State Coach Jim Stanley said. "It's Big Eight time. Without a doubt the road gets tougher, but I feel good about our chances.

Injuries could play an important role in Saturday's game, the 22nd meeting between the two schools.

Galbreath and defensive tackle Keith Morrissey - also out of the Michigan game with a bad knee - are expected to return to Missouri's starting Definitely out is Oklahoma State quarterback Charlie Weatherbie. Weatherbie, the Cowboy quarterback who scared the pants off Nebraska last year in the Huskers' narrow 10-7 win, broke his collarbone two weeks ago in OSU's 61-7 romp over North Texas State. Replacing Weatherbie is 6-2, 187-pound junior Jimmy Derrick, who directed the Cowboy offense in OSU's 17-16 hairraising win last week over Texas Tech.

Stanley, who changed OSU's offensive set to the I-formation, occasionally switches back to the Wishbone attack he ran last year.

Backs Tough

OSU's Terry Miller and fullback Robert Turner are two of the conference's top backs. Miller has gained 410 yards rushing, while both backs have rushed for more than 100 yards in three of the 'Pokes four games this season.

Whether Galbreath plays for Missouri or not, the Tigers will depend on the passing arm of quarterback Steve Pisarkiewicz. Husker Films The 6-3, 197-pound Pisarkiewicz is the conference's On ABC Sunday second leading passer with a .438 completion average, including two touchdowns. Oklahoma State enters Saturday's contest in a unique position. It marks the first time since 1960 when the Cowboys entered the Big Eight Conference that they have started their conference schedule undefeated.

Midland Coach Wants Repeat Win Over Doane

By KEN HAMBLETON State College Writer

Midland football coach Don Watchorn said he'll take another one-point win over Doane any time, including this Saturday in Fremont at 7:30 p.m.

"They can just stay home and give us a one point win and I'll be happy," said Watchorn, whose Warriors nipped the Tigers 7-6 last year for Midland's first win in the series that started in 1968.

"It's always an exciting game when we play each other, and this one should be no exception," the 1974 District 11 NAIA coach of the year said.

Midland, 4-1, and 1-0 in the Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, blasted previously undefeated Hastings 42-21 last week.

"We just had a great game against Hastings," Watchorn said. "And our defense had an exceptional game holding Hastings to -5 yards rushing."

Sapio Sparkles

"Our pass rush improved and we got to Schultz (Hastings quarterback Rod) about seven times and that really made a difference," said Watchorn. Safety Ralph Sapio, the only returning letterman in the Midland defensive backfield, also helped the Warriors by intercepting two Bronco passes for touchdowns.

Facing the Doane veer offense will present new problems for the Warriors, Watchorn said. "We'll have to stop their quarterback quick because he runs the option well and likes to throw a lot."

Doane quarterback Gary Knapp currently ranks fourth in offense with a 109.6 average.

Doane Rushing

"It puts a lot of pressure on us to just contain their outside game," said Watchorn, "and then we have to watch their backs Schulz (fullback Steve) and Elm (halfback Ted) because they're good too.'

Offensively the Warriors haven't had to wait to see

Rick Klug

Most of last year's 11-0 backfield returned including allstate performers halfback Rick Klug, quarterback Dean Olsen and tailback Dexter Brown.

Watchorn is anxiously awaiting the day when Brown and Klug both have good days. "Last week Klug had a great day. The week before Brown had a good game. They seem to trade off between a good performance and a so-so game," Watchorn the state colleges for total said. "But if we can get them together . . .

Study Is Only 'Phase I' In Tenure Examination

Star Staff Writer The University of Nebraska faculty tenure study is "only Phase I," Regent Kermit Hansen declared Friday, personally dismissing the "assumption" that guaranteed re-employment "is the best possible thing" to improve NU academic quality.

Hansen, of Omaha, told fellow regents there's "value in studying alternatives."

NU President D.B. Varner emphasized that board members aren't arbitrarily "pressing for the overthrow of the tenure system" or bent on giving it a complete overhaul soon.

Regents agreed and nodded further assent to Varner's call for faculty assistance and cooperation with NU central system administrators' and the board's examination of alternatives to tenure.

The discussion followed a unanimous regents vote on Hansen's motion to accept the tenure study prepared by NU Executive Vice President Steven B. Sample, and to defer action on it until at least their November meeting.

Tenure Density

It was Hansen in April who moved to direct Sample, NU's academic affairs chief, to conduct the study on university-wide tenure policies, with the intention of reducing tenure density.

That is the fraction of faculty who hold tenure relative to the total number eligible, an increasingly high percentage regents worried would adversely affect flexibility and prevent "new blood" from infusing excellence.

Hansen named three possible alternatives in the overall tenure issue." He cited five-year faculty contracts with renewable options, significantly bolstered pay, and increased retirement benefits.

The report also presented evidence that NU tenure density will decrease, opposite what regents had suspected. Sample supported the tenure principle, since it's a "national marketplace phenomenon" among institutions with which NU "must compete."

Besides, NU sits low in the competitivesalary heap, Sample said.

Lincoln Regent Ed Schwartzkopf objected to justifying tenure on the basis of salary. A better incentive, he suggested, would be an annually renewable $2,500 stipend for a faculty member of proven excellence.

Schwartzkopf said too he's "disturbed" that faculty took the regents' one-month, tenuregranting suspension as a threat, when Sample's study finally showed NU's tenure density fits with the "national trend."

Had those statistics been available to regents in April, he said, the Lincoln campus faculty offensive to seek collective bargaining could perhaps have been avoided.

Resolution Tabled

On a motion by Grand Island Regent Robert Koefoot, the board unanimously tabled a resolution that would've ordered the administrative reporting arrangement in reaffirmed strong operational autonomy for each of the three NU regents proclaimed unanimous' support Friday for the School of Social Work, threatened by withdrawal of its accreditation.

The vote was a response to three persons who asked regents for commitments, financially, to improve the school's faculty, and ethically, to merit full instead of probationary accreditation by the National Council on Social Work Education (CSWE).

The trio appeared on behalf of a coalition of professional social workers, students and laymen trying to generate support for continuing the NU School of Social Work. They noted graduates not only generally remain in the area, but the school serves professionals' development and Nebraskans' social and health needs.

Regents agreed a coalition member could accompany Omaha campus Chancellor Ronald Roskens and an UNO contingent to an accreditation hearing in November.

Deficiencies Cited CSWE evaluators want responses to deficiencies they cited in support for the school by NU, in adequate faculty resources, cohesiveness and leadership continuity, and in the campus to attain coordination in the school's mission.

The school's future is threatened, a graduate student said, because NU officials have decided to phase out the UNL graduate program in social work education by fall 1976, and the UNL undergraduate program by flal 1977. Both would be moved to UNO, integrated into programs there. Omaha Regent Kermit Hansen said the accreditation status is a "shocking development," since the evaluation team told Chancellor Roskens the school had no major problems.

Noting that the move would affect some UNO social work faculty who commute daily from Lincoln, NU President D.B. Varner said some faculty would be phased out to hire "more competent" replacements required.

Scottsbluff Regent Robert Simmons questioned whether NU is trying to do too much with insufficient resources. Student Regent Timothy Chappell of the NU Medical Center said moving the social work school to UNO shouldn't deemphasize rural orientation bulatorium. Area Of Excellence In the first of a series of reports to regents on the "Areas of Excellence" program, UNL Journalism School Director R. Neale Copple said the designation "represents national educational leadership." To enable meeting specific, internally defined goals, the Legislature awarded the Journalism School an additional $75,-000 last academic year and $25,-000 this year. The accompanying self-study requirement is a "sound management tool," which Copple said allowed him to tie together formerly pragmatic administrative decisions into a three-year program of goals for excellence. Because funding is increasingly tight, regents also discussed building a tunnel to connect Omaha's University Hospital and Clarkson Hospital, at perhaps less cost than buying UNMC a $450,000 piece of needed medical equipment, which is already available next door at Clarkson.

The University of Nebraska faculty tenure study is "only Phase I," Regent Kermit Hansen declared Friday, personally dismissing the "assumption" that guaranteed re-employment "is the best possible thing" to improve NU academic quality.

Hansen, of Omaha, told fellow regents there's "value in studying alternatives."

NU President D.B. Varner emphasized that board members aren't arbitrarily "pressing for the overthrow of the tenure system" or bent on giving it a complete overhaul soon.

Regents agreed and nodded further assent to Varner's call for faculty assistance and cooperation with NU central system administrators' and the board's examination of alternatives to tenure.

The discussion followed a unanimous regents vote on Hansen's motion to accept the tenure study prepared by NU Executive Vice President Steven B. Sample, and to defer action on it until at least their November meeting.

Tenure Density

It was Hansen in April who moved to direct Sample, NU's academic affairs chief, to conduct the study on university-wide tenure policies, with the intention of reducing tenure density.

That is the fraction of faculty who hold tenure relative to the total number eligible, an increasingly high percentage regents worried would adversely affect flexibility and prevent "new blood" from infusing excellence.

Hansen named three possible alternatives in the overall tenure issue." He cited five-year faculty contracts with renewable options, significantly bolstered pay, and increased retirement benefits.

The report also presented evidence that NU tenure density will decrease, opposite what regents had suspected. Sample supported the tenure principle, since it's a "national marketplace phenomenon" among institutions with which NU "must compete."

Besides, NU sits low in the competitive salary heap, Sample said.

Lincoln Regent Ed Schwartzkopf objected to justifying tenure on the basis of salary. A better incentive, he suggested, would be an annually renewable $2,500 stipend for a faculty member of proven excellence. Schwartzkopf said too he's "disturbed" that faculty took the regents' one-month, tenuregranting suspension as a threat, when Sample's study finally showed NU's tenure density fits with the "national trend."

Had those statistics been available to regents in April, he said, the Lincoln campus faculty offensive to seek collective bargaining could perhaps have been avoided.

Resolution Tabled

On a motion by Grand Island Regent Robert Koefoot, the board unanimously tabled a resolution that would've ordered the administrative reporting arrangement in reaffirmed strong operational autonomy for each of the three NU

NWU Sophomore Is Queen

Nebraska Wesleyan University sophomore Vivian Moore was named queen of the NWU chapter of the Afro-American Collegiate Society during an AACS dance Friday night. She is the daughter of Mrs. Olevia Moore, of 1607 Knox, and is majoring in sociology. She was selected by AACS members.

Regents Pledge Support

School Of Social Work Threatened . . .

University of Nebraska ability of UNO and the Lincoln ordered almost $12.2 million in regents proclaimed unanimous support Friday for the School of Social Work, threatened by withdrawal of its accreditation.

The vote was a response to three persons who asked regents for commitments, financially, to improve the school's faculty, and ethically, to merit full instead of probationary accreditation by the National Council on Social Work Education (CSWE).

The trio appeared on behalf of a coalition of professional social workers, students and laymen trying to generate support for continuing the NU School of Social Work. They noted graduates not only generally remain in the area, but the school serves professionals' development and Nebraskans' social and health needs.

Regents agreed a coalition member could accompany Omaha campus Chancellor Ronald Roskens and an UNO contingent to an accreditation hearing in November.

Deficiencies Cited CSWE evaluators want responses to deficiencies they cited in support for the school by NU, in adequate faculty resources, cohesiveness and leadership continuity, and in the campus to attain coordination in the school's mission.

The school's future is threatened, a graduate student said, because NU officials have decided to phase out the UNL graduate program in social work education by fall 1976, and the UNL undergraduate program by flal 1977. Both would be moved to UNO, integrated into programs there. Omaha Regent Kermit Hansen said the accreditation status is a "shocking development," since the evaluation team told Chancellor Roskens the school had no major problems.

Noting that the move would affect some UNO social work faculty who commute daily from Lincoln, NU President D.B. Varner said some faculty would be phased out to hire "more competent" replacements required.

Scottsbluff Regent Robert Simmons questioned whether NU is trying to do too much with insufficient resources. Student Regent Timothy Chappell of the NU Medical Center said moving the social work school to UNO shouldn't deemphasize rural orientation

In other business, regents re-

1976-77 capital construction requests of the Legislature, approved $775,430 in non-state funded projects, and $6,591,000 in bids for the UNMC Ambulatorium. Area Of Excellence

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day, it's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 4, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters the checked figures give you.
